ON SUGAR TARIFF DEMOCRATS SPLIT

Caucus Will Be Held to Decide the Matter.

Much Secrecy About the Bill Which Underwood Will Present to the Caucus—Broussard Attacks the Ways and Means Committee.

Washington, February 29.—Democrat of the house will caucus tomorrow on the revised sugar tariff schedule and other revenue measures. The ways and means committee report to the caucus on sugar, which has been so carefully guarded from publication, is not absolutely known to the democrats themselves. Chairman Underwood and other members of the committee have steadfastly refused to tell even their colleagues what their recommendation would be, and that attitude roused trouble among members today.

Representative Broussard, of Louisiana, after attempting to find out directly from Mr. Underwood what the report would be, issued a statement attacking the ways and means committee for the secrecy.

Knocks Secret Caucus.
"The secret caucus—the dark-room operations—the blind man's buff method of legislation," said Representative Broussard, "will not answer modern thought on matters affecting the public welfare. I fail to see the force of this. If a man is doing a right thing, he should invite criticism. This is legislation by caucus with every member blindfolded. I informed Mr. Underwood that the system of legislation would not do. I, for one, will not stand for it. The people of the country have a right to know what is going on here."

Two Reports to Caucus.
Two reports were current tonight as to what will be the recommendation of the committee. The one most favored as a guess is that sugar will be placed on the free list. The outline of this reported solution of the problem is:

All sugars to be placed on the free list.
To make up for the revenue that would thus be lost—approximately $2,000,000 a year—separate schedules will be submitted to the caucus, one assessing an ad valorem tax of 54 per cent on raw silk, which is the free list, from which would be derived an estimated revenue of $41,000,000 a year; another placing an ad valorem tax of from 11 to 12 per cent on crude rubber, from which would be derived about $12,000,000. This plan would provide for the loss of the $23,000,000 in revenue.

A Compromise Report.
Although many members of the house declared tonight they would be content with the committee's recommendation, others who insisted there would be a report compromising the differences in the party, and the bill would provide a cut in the customs duty to an equivalent of about eighty cents a hundred pounds on refined sugar, the other revenue to be derived either from an internal revenue tax of from one-quarter to one-half a cent a pound on sugar, or a slight tax on silk and rubber.

COOLER AND FAIR TODAY, SAYS THE WEATHER MAN

Slightly cooler and beautifully fair is the prediction of the weather man for Friday, while Saturday will also be fair, he thinks. The thermometer should register about 30 degrees this morning.

"The hot water bottle is a wonderful invention," quipped the Gopher. "One cool night recently this lady had cold feet and proceeded to put her hot water bottle into active use. Result: Too much pressure, bottle brittle—zing! She slept in a different bed that night."

Pennies by the Mile.
(From The Boston Traveler.)
"Have you collected your foot of pennies, Clarice?"
This dialogue between two Wellesley college girls was overheard today. You see, the girls at Wellesley are trying to collect "a mile of pennies" during the next two weeks for the student alumni building fund. One idea, eh? Some class to Wellesley girls! This ingenious plan was thought of by one of the girls and was immediately put into effect by the students.

The girls have been provided with little wooden slotted sticks one foot long. When they get one filled it is turned in another. The plan of the girls is to fill 5,280 of these sticks before the student government meets on Monday.

If you are out Wellesley way and a girl comes up to you with a peculiar looking stick in her hand and says, "Please give me a penny," you will know she is out collecting for the building fund.

Nothing Definite Now Known.
What the company will agree to do is now only problematical and nothing definite can be known until President Arkwright reports to the council committee what his directors have decided to do.

If concessions are made which are satisfactory to the committee and to council a resolution will be introduced calling for all of the proposed investigations of street car fares, electric lights and electric power.

When Councilman Chambers, who submitted the several propositions to Mr. Arkwright, was asked what he thought of the situation, he replied: "We are now very hopeful. I think we have asked what is only just and equitable, and as Mr. Arkwright has declared that his company would make any fair concession rather than go into a prolonged and expensive investigation, we believe that the city will probably get many of the things it wants. It now seems probable that the city will be given some valuable concessions by the Georgia Railway and Electric Company, and whatever we get will be the result of the Constitution's agitation for cheaper street car fares, and we will see that that paper is given full credit."

LIVELY FIGHT OCCURS AT STREET CAR DANCE

The invasion of the street car men's dance last night at the car barn by two blacksmiths was the signal for an invasion to the intruders to leave, which precipitated a husky fight. Two arrests were made, W. H. Cranford, 398 East Fair street, who did the scuffling, and his friend, T. E. Richardson, 48 Hobbs street, who is said to have interfered with the arrest and cursed the officer.

Cranford stated that he had been asked by several young ladies, who were going to the dance, to come by for them. They told him to say he was a street car man in order to secure admittance. He had been in the hall only a few minutes before he was spotted, and he was told to get out. Words followed, which led up to the fight, which occurred in the street and not in the hall.

MOUNTAIN ASH CHORUS PLEASES BIG AUDIENCE
The concert tendered by the Mountain Ash Male Chorus, singers from Wales, was highly enjoyed by a large audience at the Baptist Tabernacle last night.

The chorus, solo and part singing was rendered with fine effect. The song in Welsh, "Cwm, Fflwr, Cwag" (Sleep, Soldier, Sleep) was a decided novelty. A pianoforte solo, the Hungarian Rhapsody, as performed by Edgar Jones, R. M. A., was well received. A descriptive chorus, "Tyrol," the music by Ambrose Thomas, called forth enthusiastic applause.

CLEMENCY RULES ARE ANNOUNCED

Applicants for Pardons and Commutations Must Act Accordingly.

Governor Joseph M. Brown and the members of the state prison commission yesterday issued a new series of rules governing all future applications for pardons, commutations of sentence, paroles and respites.

Posting of notice at the courthouse of the county in which the crime was committed, for thirty days in advance of hearing, is required in all cases. The prison commission will take up clemency applications the first Monday in each month and devote all the time necessary to hear those pending. They will make no report to the governor before the 15th of each month, and he will hear no cases except on the last Thursday and Friday in each month.

The Clemency Rules.

The newly issued rules regarding all applications for clemency are as follows:

Rule 1—Applications must be filed with and considered by the prison commission before being brought to the attention of the governor.

Rule 2—All facts essential to the settlement of cases under review must be put in writing.

Rule 3—Notice of intention to file, or of having filed, applications for executive clemency, must be posted on the bulletin board of the courthouse in the county where the crime was committed, and for which the prisoner was convicted, at least thirty days before being considered by the prison commission.

Rule 4—Requests of trial jurors for modification of their verdicts should be made and considered by the prison commission before being brought to the attention of the governor. Unless they swear that facts brought to their attention subsequent to the trial are convincing to them that their verdict was in error, or that the sentence is excessive, they will not be considered.

Rule 5—When obtainable, the papers must include expressions of opinion as to the merits of the application in question from the judge and solicitor general who tried the case, and from prosecutors.

Rule 6—No respites or reprieves will be granted in other than capital cases, and then only when the application cannot be given full consideration and disposed of before the date fixed by the court for the execution of the sentence.

Rule 7—Excepting capital cases, no applications for clemency will be considered until applicant has begun the service of the sentence imposed.

Rule 8—When an application is declined, the case cannot be reopened until one year has intervened, unless new facts come to light.

Rule 9—The prison commission will meet on the first Monday of each month for the consideration of applications for clemency.

Rule 10—The commission will spend such time as may be needed that week in the hearings. Its recommendations will be submitted to the governor before the 15th of the month, and no hearings on same will be held after that date, except on the last Thursday and Friday of each month.

These limits as to time will be rigidly enforced, inasmuch as the multiplicity of demands upon the attention of these offices will not permit of every day hearings of applications for clemency.

Note—Only in cases of emergencies will exceptions be made to any of the above rules.

The rules are signed by Governor Joseph M. Brown and prison commissioners R. E. Davidson, chairman; T. E. Patterson and Wiley Williams.

MUSCOGEE TAXPAYERS WANT LOWER VALUATION

Columbus, Ga., February 29.—(Special.)—Frank M. Sommerkamp, tax receiver of Muscogee county, now has before him and is considering a petition from many property holders owning real estate in the city of Columbus, asking that they be allowed to give in their property for taxation at three-fourths of the valuation fixed by the city tax assessors.

Heretofore the county tax receivers in Muscogee have insisted on city realty being given in at the valuations fixed by the city board of assessors.

It is claimed that various other Georgia counties containing large cities permit the city property to go on the county books at a valuation less than that fixed by the municipality. Atlanta is given as one of the examples, it being contended that in that city property is placed on the county tax books at a valuation equal to only 75 per cent of the city assessment.

BIBLE CONFERENCE OPENS; GREAT ARRAY OF SPEAKERS

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE A. FISHER, One of the singers at the Baptist Tabernacle Bible Conference.

The fourteenth annual Bible conference at the Baptist Tabernacle will open tonight with a song service at 7:30 o'clock, to be followed by address by Dr. Stuart MacArthur, the New York city pastor who has been called to take the pastorate made vacant by the resignation of Dr. Len G. Broughton. Professor Camden H. Coburn, of Allegheny college, Pennsylvania, will also make an address.

Indications are that the fourteenth conference will be marked by the greatest out-of-town attendance of the series. The corps of speakers is unusually strong. One of the features of the conference will be its music. At tonight's services, as well as at all other meetings, a book of conference hymns, compiled by Dr. Broughton, will be used. The choir will be supported by Professor George A. Fisher, of Michigan, tenor soloist; Mrs. Fisher, who is also a soloist of note; Prof. A. C. Boatman; Professor Chester E. Harris, of Urbana, Ohio, and others.

Will relate Russian experiences. Dr. MacArthur, in his address tonight, will tell of his recent experiences in Russia at the dedication of the Fetter Baptist Tabernacle, the first

SIGNOR BONCI IS HERE FOR CONCERT TONIGHT

Signor Alessandro Bonci is in the city resting at the Georgian Terrace before his concert at the Grand this evening, where he will appear before one of the largest audiences of the season. Already nearly 2,000 seats are sold for his concert, and it is believed that every seat in the Grand will be taken before the hour of the concert this evening.

Signor Bonci comes to Atlanta and the south for the first time, fresh from his recent victories in the cities of the east, and the music lovers of Atlanta and vicinity are expecting great things of him tonight.

There has been considerable whispering in the music circles of the east in regard to Signor Bonci's plans for an opera invasion of New York next season. It is said that a company of millionaires have agreed to back Signor Bonci for presenting a season of grand opera in English. It is quite possible that the movement will take definite form before Signor Bonci returns to the old world.

The performance will begin promptly at 8:30 this evening.

HUDSON RESIGNS; EFFECTIVE MAY 1

Governor Is Still Considering Appointment of His Successor.

Commissioner of Agriculture T. G. Hudson sent his resignation to Governor Joseph M. Brown on Thursday, to take effect May 1.

Commissioner Hudson stated that it was his purpose to become a candidate for an office that will require practically all his time, and for that reason felt impelled to leave his present place. Although he did not state in his resignation what the office is for which he proposes to run, it is generally understood he will be a candidate for congress in the third congressional district, and will enter actively upon his campaign after leaving his present office May 1.

Commissioner Hudson's letter of resignation to Governor Brown is as follows:

"Atlanta, Ga., February 29, 1912. Hon. Jos. M. Brown, Governor, Ga. Dear Governor: In view of the fact that I am about to become a candidate for an office that will require practically all my time, and make it impossible for me to devote the time necessary to properly look after the duties of my office, I deem it my duty to tender to you, as governor of the state of Georgia, my resignation as commissioner of agriculture to become effective May 1, 1912. Very truly yours,

T. G. HUDSON, Commissioner of Agriculture.

Applicants and Friends. Governor Brown spent the day Thursday practically as the day before, in hearing from candidates for the office of commissioner of agriculture and their friends. All day long those interested in the office either in their own behalf or for some of those who were applying, came and went in the executive office, and the governor was practically not out of his office during the day.

He did not reach a conclusion, however, though it is expected he will announce his appointee before the end of the week.

It is generally believed that the governor will appoint some one who will not be a candidate for election to the office before the primary this year. In which event all the candidates will have fair field, and the man on the job will have no advantage over them.

DAM CONTRACT GIVEN TO COLUMBUS COMPANY

Columbus, Ga., February 29.—(Special.)—The United States government has awarded a contract to the Hardaway contracting company of Columbus, to build dam across lock No. 17, on the Black Warrior river, in Alabama, at a cost of over two million dollars. Work is to begin at once, and is to be completed within two and one-half years.

A concrete dam, 63 feet high, 75 feet broad at the base and 1,200 feet long, is to be erected. The contract calls for some 300,000 cubic yards of common and rock excavating and about 300,000 cubic yards of concrete construction. The dam will be located at Squaw Shoals, twenty-seven miles north of Tuscaloosa, and will make a pond fifty miles long. Water will be taken to a point north of the dam, Mr. Hardaway, the successful bidder for this, the largest contract of its character ever awarded for Alabama, built lock No. 16 on the same river.

18 BURGLARIES IN MONTH IS RECORD OF AMERICUS

Americus, Ga., February 29.—(Special.)—Eighteen burglaries in Americus for the current month ending today is the unusual record and not an arrest made or suspicion concentrated upon any particular one.

The burglaries were evidently committed by home talent and amateurs in the profession. Stores and residences alike were entered here indiscriminately, four places of business being attacked in one night.

The burglars evidently wanted money principally, as few articles of jewelry or valuables aside from money were taken.

Additional police protection and employment of plain clothes men is demanded by citizens, alarmed at the recent record.

M'CALLIE WILL SPEAK AT DRAINAGE CONGRESS

State Geologist S. W. McCallie will deliver an address at the forthcoming convention of the National Drainage congress to be held in New Orleans April 10 to 13. His subject will be "The Swamp and Overflow Lands of Georgia, and What the State is Doing Toward Their Reclamation."

Dr. McCallie will go to New Orleans for this meeting, not only as a delegate from Georgia, but by special invitation from Governor J. Y. Sanders of Louisiana, and Mayor Martin Behrman of New Orleans, both of whom wrote him personal letters urging his attendance and asking that he deliver an address on that occasion. They called attention in the letters to the great interest that Dr. McCallie has shown in drainage work, and urged him to accept their invitations.

MRS. JARNAGIN CUT BY GLASS WHEN AUTO HITS ELECTRIC

Mrs. W. C. Jarnagin, 142 Juniper street, was painfully cut about the face by flying glass yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. George Forrester's electric, in which she was riding with Mrs. Forrester and Mrs. Sam Porter, was struck by a touring car driven by T. O. Fisher, a salesman for the Case company. The accident occurred at North Forsyth and Luckie streets at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Forrester and Mrs. Porter both escaped without any hurt. Mrs. Jarnagin was at once taken home, where her injuries were found to be slight flesh wounds. The car was scratched and glass broken, but was not put out of commission.

Fisher was arrested by Officer S. J. Roberts and taken to police court, as he leaves the city today for the Montgomery automobile show and wished to settle the case at once. Witnesses of the accident had said that Fisher had tried to cut across the corner to go down Luckie street and thus had run in front of the electric. He was fined $25.75 for violating the road ordinance.

Spring Suits

—Muse's

By the count of the calendar the first day docketed for Spring "blew in" this morning. (We took a chance on the fitness of the vernacular—March is likely to change moods and send the Lamb first.)

The Message of March, for certain, is a surer thing—for it's the good news of the New Spring Suits at Muse's.

The Spring Suit seems to be blue, in the majority—but you'd never believe there were so many shades and weaves and other treatments that vary the favorite.

Spring models are English or medium fitting coats, with six-button vest finished with silk braid or pique.

Three-piece suits,
$16.50 to $40.00.

MARVELOUS WORK

ACCOMPLISHED

Lampe Is Enthusiastic Over Good Results Produced.

Ed Lampe, electrician, residing at No. 544 Congress street, Commercial Hotel, Savannah, Ga., but who is prominently known throughout Atlanta, is among thousands of people who are now enthusiastic endorsers of the new tonic, "Tona Vita," that is having such a tremendous sale in this city at present.

Mr. Lampe said: "This 'Tona Vita' has done more for me than any medicine I have ever taken. I have been feeling better than I have for a long time. A short time ago and am now feeling better than I have for a long time."

"Before using this tonic I was completely run down. My work as an electrician was of a nature to bring about this nervous, run-down condition. I have been in this condition for the past two years and have recently come out of the hospital, where I was being treated for nervous prostration, and a paralytic stroke. I had very little strength and energy and my work became a burden."

"In a few days I noticed a great improvement in my health. I began to improve after the first dose of 'Tona Vita.' I could hardly believe it myself and thought it must be my imagination, as I had tried so many different remedies without relief. I am now feeling better than I have for a long time. I sleep well, eat well and have much more strength, the work I am doing has left me and I am not as nervous as I was. I think it is one great tonic, and from my own experience, I highly recommend it to all suffering with nervousness."

The specialists who are introducing this new tonic in this city are meeting the public at the Jacobs Pharmacy Company, Marietta street, from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. These specialists state that the success of the tonic here is larger than they anticipated, and that a great many people are taking the tonic here in this city.

"While we are meeting callers each day now and hundreds of debilitated people are regaining their health through the use of our tonic, there are thousands more who want to reach before we leave. If all the men and women who are struggling along depressed in mind and body by nervous debility, unable to get any real enjoyment out of living, would only take the time to come in and talk to us, we would bring a tremendous amount of happiness to the people of this city. There is little real pleasure in life for an individual who feels continually worn out. Positively the very first dose of our tonic benefits a man or woman in this condition."

HERBERT TALLEY
TURNS UP AGAIN

Returns to Atlanta and Finds His Visit a Costly One.

Herbert W. Talley came back yesterday to try conclusions with the courts and will stand trial on the cases held open against him when he agreed to leave town and stay away for a period of years. He just couldn't stay away from Atlanta.

In addition, it is rumored that Hub will at once take up the study of law and will begin practice as soon as he is able.

"I hear Talley is going to practice law, but he can't ask any questions now," said Judge Broyles Thursday during the trial of a case against him. "If he does, however, he can't practice in my court."

Three cases against Talley, made last October, were tried, and in all three he was convicted and sentenced an aggregate of $650 or two months' imprisonment, with an additional 30 days tacked on in the whiskey case for which he cannot pay a fine. Bill Clay, whom Talley charged with being a friend of Dan Shaw, a rival whiskey king, gave evidence of having bought liquor from Talley about October 25. Two contempt cases, one for threatening Clay in connection with the case, and another for escaping from the court room during the trial of the case, were also tried.

All the cases were certiorated.

COMMISSION IS PROPOSED ON INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS

Washington, February 29.—President Taft's recommendations for the establishment of a commission on industrial relations are embodied in a bill introduced in the house today by Representative Hughes, democrat, of New Jersey. The bill is significant in view of existing labor troubles in several sections of the country.

The president urged a commission on industrial relations to inquire into the relations between employers and employees and the various methods tried for maintaining peaceful conditions in the industrial world.

The Hughes bill is similar to one to be introduced in the senate by Senator Borah, which would provide for a commission of nine to serve without compensation. The department of commerce and labor would be authorized to co-operate with the commission, and the latter would include not less than two employers of labor and two representatives of organized labor. The commission would inquire into "the general conditions of labor in the principal industries in the United States; into existing relations between employers and employees; into the effect of industrial conditions on the public welfare; into the growth of associations of employees and wage-earners; the result of methods of collective bargaining and into methods of avoiding and adjusting labor disputes through peaceful and conciliatory methods, together with an inquiry into the methods employed in foreign countries for the maintenance of peace in the industrial world."

House and senate committees on labor soon will hold hearings on the bill.

ON PATENT MEDICINES
SUPREME COURT RULES

Washington, February 29.—Patent medicines and other patented articles may be sold without reference to the prices fixed by the patentee.

This was the opinion handed down today by Justice Wright in the equity court, when he refused the application of a drug manufacturing concern for an injunction to prevent a local druggist from "cutting" prices without a manufacturer's permission. The court declared that the patentee of an article could control the price by which it should be sold by "license," but that once the article had found its way to the open market by outright purchase, all right to fix the price passed from the patentee.

It was admitted that the retail druggist was not a "licensee."

TROOPS RIOTING

IN CHINA CAPITAL

Revolt Breaks Out Among the Soldiers in Peking.

The Mutinous Soldiers Wreck and Fire Number of Houses. The Loyal Soldiers Are Endeavoring to Restore Order.

Peking, February 29.—A revolt has broken out among a portion of Yuan Shi Kai's troops, some hundreds of whom started a riot this evening at 8 o'clock. They wrecked and set fire to a number of houses and paraded the streets, shooting indiscriminately.

A strong force of loyal soldiers has been ordered out and is endeavoring to restore order in the city.

The streets are crowded and the greatest alarm prevails among the inhabitants.

The mutineers at 9:30 o'clock this evening numbered about 2,000. Hundreds of shops already have been looted. Much reckless shooting occurred outside the Chien Men gate of the Forbidden City, near which the legation quarter is situated. In the city proper the situation is quieting, and it is hoped by the authorities that order will be restored by midnight.

The rioters claim that their wages have not been paid.

A shell fired from one of the guns in the hands of the mutinous troops fell within the confines of the American legation, but it did not explode.

Foreigners in the capital are being brought into their respective legations.

Legations Not Afraid.

When firing began in the streets this evening the inmates of the legations felt no anxiety because they had been notified that a great lantern parade would occur in celebration of the arrival of Tang Shao Yi and other republican delegates from Nanking. When, however, the foreign residents living outside the legation headquarters who had engagements to dinner in the concessions did not arrive and firing became more intense the occupants of the foreign concessions broke up into rescue parties.

Some of these, on trying to go out into the city, found the entrances to the legation quarters blocked by foreign troops who were at work sandbagging the entrances. Rifle bullets then began falling into the legation quarter, and the various legations all sent squads of troops into the Chinese city to rescue their nationals living outside the quarter.

United States Sends Troops.

The United States legation sent a detachment of twenty men to bring in Mr. and Mrs. Willard D. Straight, but has not yet sent for the American missionaries. The British legation has brought in the British missionaries. The American commandant of the troops at the legation, Major John Henry Russell, of the marine corps, says that he will send for the American missionaries if they fire the rockets with which they are provided.

In the meantime desultory firing continues on all sides of the quarter and flames are spreading throughout the section in which the government offices are situated to the north of the foreign quarter.

Montgomery & Stone, America's Greatest Musical Comedians, in "The Old Town," begin their 2 nights and Sat. Mat. engagement tonight at The Atlanta.

HYDROPLANE EMPLOYED TO RECOVER LOST BODY

New Orleans, February 29.—The hydroplane was successfully employed today in a search which has lasted for eleven days for the body of Herbert P. Johnson, a naval architect, who was drowned in Lake Pontchartrain on Sunday, February 18. After futile attempts at dragging sections of the lake and almost constant searching by divers, the body was recovered by the hydroplane.

The body was found far out in the lake floating on the surface and was brought to shore by a motorboat. Today marked Redell's third attempt in the operation of an aeroplane.

Louisville, Ky., February 29.—Falling to affect a reconciliation with his wife, who had left him upon their first quarrel, after forty years of married life, Baben Traud, 60 years old, went to the old home just outside the city, where they had lived together, and committed suicide late yesterday afternoon by drinking carbolic acid.

Macon, Ga., February 29.—(Special.) The executive committee for the reunion has been petitioned by several camps in North Carolina to abandon the idea of entertaining the veterans with three big balls and other social festivities, and, indeed, to have prayer meetings and religious services. The ladies in charge of the social affairs express themselves as being willing to do this, but state that the majority of veterans prefer the dances, even those who have only one leg or arm being in favor of the ball room events.

Wanted, a Chicken Catcher.

Macon, Ga., February 29.—(Special.) Chief of Police Chapman is advertising for an official chicken catcher, salary $75 per month. The job will probably last only one month, but it will be a busy one during that period. The city council has ordered that all chickens be kept in back yards, at least until after the reunion, and a man will be employed to take up those found on the streets.

Rev. Troy will speak on "The Old Gospel and Modern Heresies."

Akerman's Assistant.

Macon, Ga., February 29.—(Special.) Upon his return to the city today from Washington, Hon. Alexander Akerman, the new United States district attorney for the southern district of Georgia, will appoint his assistant. At present Arthur H. Codrington is the assistant, but it is not believed that he will be continued. Heretofore there have been two assistants, necessitated by Marion Ewins' absence from the district. In the future, however, it is probable that Mr. Akerman will be restricted to one assistant.

Candidates Complaining.

Macon, Ga., February 29.—(Special.) Bibb county candidates are complaining at the prospect of having a long campaign, one running well into August, because of the refusal of the county executive committee to accede to the request for an early primary. The local newspapers have advanced the rates for publication of political cards, and this is another source of complaint among the candidates, who say that a poor man cannot afford to run. The only candidates so far announced are for the legislature the solicitor's office and the ordinary's office.

Ben Matthews Jailed.

Macon, Ga., February 29.—(Special.) Ben B. Matthews, a well-known young man, was this morning sentenced to spend two months in the county jail upon pleading guilty in the superior court to the charge of shooting at another. He boarded a Vinelille car recently and shot twice at Conductor B. H. Newby, who threatened to put him off for disorderly conduct. The jail sentence was a surprise to Matthews and his friends, who thought by pleading guilty he would receive only a fine. However, Judge Felton prescribed two months in jail and a fine of $100.

Solicitor Sends Statement.

Macon, Ga., February 29.—(Special.) Governor Brown was today sent an extended statement by Solicitor General Walter J. Grace in regard to the Willam B. Walker case. The solicitor declares that the crime was proved beyond a doubt, and that it was the most atrocious ever committed in this county. He takes special exception to reflections that he construes to have been made on him and Judge Felton by Attorney John P. Ross in the latter's argument to the governor on Tuesday.

STRIKING STUDENTS ARE STANDING FIRM

Fayetteville, Ark., February 29.—The walk-out of about 500 Arkansas university students Monday, after announcement that thirty-six students were suspended by the faculty for alleged contributions to an alleged iconoclastic publication called the "X-Ray," will be subject for deliberation by the board of trustees. The board is to meet Friday.

Today the collection, including the coasts of the institution, stood firm. Breakfast, temptingly hot, was served to the young women on the campus by their male fellow strikers. Immediately afterwards the usual morning parade took place, forming on the campus and ending at a downtown theater, where a mass meeting was held. The speakers renewed pledges to resist temporarily all orders issued by the faculty. A committee of five young men was named to present the students' side of the controversy to the trustees.

ATLANTA MAY GET
ALUMINUM PLANT

Chicago and Cleveland Capitals Is Interested in Project.

It is understood that negotiations have about been completed with Chicago and Cleveland parties to become interested in establishing near Atlanta one of the largest aluminum plants in the United States.

Abundance and cheapness of electrical energy, coupled with the nearness to the proven bauxite deposits close to Atlanta, have been some of the features given attention by the interested parties.

Aluminum and its alloys is rapidly becoming a competitor of copper, and it is a condition worthy of note that the south today holds within her domain some of the most important aluminum ore deposits found in America. Prof. L. M. Richard, an experienced mining and electrical engineer, with a wide clientele in the north and west, who will head the company, was formerly connected with the University System of Georgia.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED TO MRS. KATE AMES

London, February 29.—Mrs. Kate Ames was granted a decree of divorce today from her husband, Hugo Ames, the author, who was in 1890 private secretary to Sir Julian Pauncefote at the British legation at Washington. Mr. Ames withdrew his defense to the suit.

The divorce was claimed by Mrs. Ames on the ground of alleged misconduct and desertion by her husband and of his marriage with Flora Norch-Wilson in America, which, she asserted, was bigamous. Mr. Ames said that he was a divorcee from his first wife in Idaho, but she claimed that the decree was not valid in England.

WILL BETHUNE
GETS 10 YEARS

Given Limit for Murderous Attack Made on T. H. Henderson.

Jonesboro, Ga., February 29.—(Special.)—Will Bethune was today found guilty of assaulting, with intent to murder, Thomas H. Henderson, and was given the limit, a 10-year sentence, by Judge L. S. Roan. His brother, Mel Bethune, who was associated with him in the attack, is now serving a life sentence for a murder committed in Fayette county.

According to evidence brought out in the trial, the assault, which occurred last September in the "Panhandle" district of Clayton county, was most atrocious. As Henderson, who lives near Griffin, was returning home late at night he was met by the Bethune brothers, who shot at him six times with shotguns and left him in the road for dead. Henderson recovered, but lost the sight of one eye and was badly disfigured.

CASE OF STEPHENSON
STILL BEFORE SENATE

Washington, February 29.—Senator Heyburn today unsuccessfully attempted to force the senate to immediate action on the Stephenson election case. He was blocked by Senator Bristow.

Mr. Heyburn, failing to have a date fixed for a vote, moved for immediate action. Senator Bristow, and other progressive republicans, who are waiting to speak on the case, are opposed to a vote now. Mr. Bristow made a point of no quorum, and forced a call of the senate. Only forty-four senators responded to the calling of the bells and his point was made good. An adjournment followed.

AMERICAN GUNS FOR THE REBELS

United States Will Not Intervene at Juarez.

Washington, February 29.—The United States will not prohibit legitimate exportations, including munitions of war, from El Paso, Texas, into the rebel town of Juarez, Mex. This conclusion was reached today at conferences among officials of the departments of state, justice and treasury. The attitude of the United States government in dealing with Juarez is merely a reiteration of the policy adopted during the Madero revolution. Shipments of arms and ammunition which to all appearance are legitimately sent from a shipper in this country to a dealer in Mexico will not be intercepted. Agents of the departments of justice and treasury on the southern border have been instructed, however, to see that the neutrality of the United States is preserved.

Complaint from a San Antonio citizen that that city was being used as a base of rendezvous and plotting by Mexican revolutionists was made in a letter presented to the senate today by Senator Culberson, of Texas. The complainant, whose name was withheld, reported that three plots had been hatched in San Antonio within a year, and urged action to prevent repetition because of the injurious effect on the relations between this country and Mexico. The complainant was referred to the foreign relations committee.

KIMMEL MYSTERY CASE TACKLED BY LAWYERS

St. Louis, February 29.—After twenty days of conflicting testimony, lawyers in the Kimmel suit today began an analysis of the identity mystery and the insurance contest from the standpoint of the plaintiff, the receiver of a Niles, Mich., bank, and on that of the defendant, an insurance company of New York.

Two lawyers spoke today, and two are scheduled to argue tomorrow. It is thought the case will go to the jury later tomorrow.

The first two speeches laid emphasis on the question whether George A. Kimmel had been proved to be actually dead.

"The defendant," argued the plaintiff's attorney, "does not have to prove that Kimmel is alive, but the plaintiff is bound to prove not only that he is dead, but that he was dead, before the bringing of this suit."

Judge Amidon told the counsel several days ago that he would instruct the jury to consider chiefly the question whether Kimmel was actually dead when the suit began.

Kimmel disappeared in July, 1898, hence had not in 1904 been missing for seven years, the time necessary to establish a claim of legal death.

LODGE IS FIGHTING FOR PEACE TREATIES

Washington, February 29.—Senator Lodge today introduced an amendment to the resolution for ratification of the pending arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France to provide that any special agreement reached by the joint high commission of inquiry shall be made by the president, which the concurrence of the senate in the full "and unrestricted" exercise of its constitutional powers.

It is claimed by Senator Lodge and others that the present wording of clause three of article three of the treaties is susceptible of a construction which might delegate the constitutional treaty making power of the senate to the commission.

NO FROSTED ORANGES WANTED IN MICHIGAN

Lansing, Mich., February 29.—State Dairy and Food Commissioner Gilbert M. Dame today gave warning to Michigan fruit dealers that the department will confiscate all frosted oranges found in stock or offered for sale.

The commissioner had been advised that frost had been being shipped from Florida to the northern markets, and Mr. Dame has wired the Florida Citrus Exchange a warning that such shipments will be confiscated if continued to Michigan.

TWO RIVER BOATS BURN AND SINK

Eight Negroes, Members of the Crew of J. E. Trudeau, Reported Drowned.

New Orleans, February 29.—The large Mississippi river packet steamer J. E. Trudeau burned to the water's edge and sank at 2 o'clock this morning at Saint Gabriel, 100 miles north-west of New Orleans. Eight negroes, members of the crew, are missing, and are believed to have been drowned.

The steamer, which was valued at $7,000, together with a cargo of rice and other products bound from Morgan City and Bayou Teche ports, is a total loss.

The steamer was owned by the Planters' Packet Company of New Orleans, and carried a crew of sixteen. The news of the burning of the packet, received at the company's offices here, gave no details, and merely stated that eight of the negro crew members were unaccounted for.

The steamer Carrie B. Schwing, of Plaquemine, La., was also burned. The Carrie B. Schwing was owned by the Schwing Lumber Company, of Plaquemine, and was valued at $3,000. She caught fire late yesterday afternoon at Bay Natchez, forty miles from this place, and burned to the water's edge. It is believed all members of the crew escaped.

Capt. William T. Ditch, master of the Trudeau, who arrived in New Orleans this afternoon with the rescued members of the crew, told a thrilling story of the fire and of the heroic rescue of Mrs. L. S. Smith, wife of the boat's engineer, and her baby, after several of the negro roustabouts had made off in the life boats.

The steamer burned to the water's edge within fifteen minutes after the fire was discovered. But for the fact that Captain Roberts, the pilot, and Engineer Smith stuck by their posts until the steamer could be run against the bank, the officers and passengers as well as other members of the crew, would have lost their lives.

ELABORATE TERMINALS PLANNED FOR ATHENS

Athens, Ga., February 29.—(Special.) It is understood from authoritative sources that the Georgia railroad will spend a quarter of a million dollars on freight and passenger terminals to bring the depot closer to the business part of the town.

The road first had its depot across the river, two miles away from the University gate, with a horse car line running to the station. The station was after a struggle of years, brought across the river to the foot of a steep hill. Now it is proposed to erect a five-story freight depot terminal building with elevator service for teams, and construct a steel concrete viaduct from Foundry street to the level of the fifth story of the building. A passenger station nearer on a level with the business street is also embraced in the scheme of the proposed improvements.

UNTERMEYER REFUSES TO PUSH MONEY PROBE

Washington, February 29.—Samuel Untermyer, the New York attorney who was suggested by Representative Henry, of Texas, of the committee on banking and currency, as counsel in the "money trust" investigation, today declined to take part in that inquiry.

Mr. Untermyer, in a long telegram to Mr. Henry, asked him to withdraw his name from consideration, and to inform the banking and currency committee that he would not serve as its counsel.

"Explain that I have neither time nor disposition to enter upon any such controversy," Mr. Untermyer said in his message.

End of Alabama Brenau.

Eufaula, Ala., February 29.—(Special.)—The last vestige of the historic old Alabama Brenau college, for years one of the strongest competitors of the Georgia Brenau at Gainesville, has disappeared, for today the college furniture was sold in a job lot by President T. G. Wilkinson, who closed the school at the opening of the fall term last September. The city owns the buildings, and there is some talk of remodeling them into apartment houses. It has also been proposed to give the buildings to the state of Alabama for the establishment of a normal school.

CAUSE OF WRECK NOT DISCOVERED

Railroad Officials Believe a Switch Had Been Tampered With.

Montgomery, Ala., February 29.—The cause of the disastrous wreck of vestibuled limited train No. 37 at Milledgeville, 35 miles east of Montgomery, at 9:19 o'clock last night remains a mystery today. The engine and all of the train except the sleeper and the observation car left the main-line at a siding, which it is thought must have been defective.

The theory of railroad officials is that the switch had been tampered with, as drawn spikes and a spike bar were found at the switch after the wreck.

A crew, however, has been at work in this vicinity for some time installing connections with the new Birmingham and Southeastern railroad, and it is possible that the accident might have been caused from changes being wrought in the tracks.

The only fatality so far is that of Engineer A. J. Smedley, of Atlanta, who was killed instantly. Seriously injured, the negro fireman, Tom Jordan, of Montgomery, is in a local hospital. A. C. Graves, baggage master, of Atlanta, Ga., was badly hurt, and is in a hospital. R. E. Foster, a passenger, of Spartanburg, S. C., was seriously injured about the legs.

"UNCLE JOE" CANNON IN DEFENSE OF WILSON

Washington, February 29.—"I have known the secretary of agriculture for a long time; he served in the House with me and he has been my friend—personally and politically for nearly forty years. Whenever he is questioned on the one hand for his ability, and on the other for his integrity, I feel a great deal like the motto of the state from which our speaker hails—they will have to show me."

Former Speaker Cannon delivered this tribute to Secretary Wilson in the house today. It was applauded on both sides of the chamber and came near the conclusion of a general debate in which various members attacked the department of agriculture and the secretary.

The discussion of the agricultural bill in the house took in the New York Cotton Exchange, which Representative Hefflin, of Alabama, denounced.

He said there was no more reason for a cotton exchange than there was for a "hay exchange" or an "oats exchange."

ADMITS HE MURDERED MISS EVA CHAMBERS

Roads, Va., February 29.—Joshua Roads was today put on trial in the circuit court of Roanoke county at Salem for the murder of Miss Eva Chambers, the county school teacher, who was killed the morning of January 4. In the opening statement the attorney for the defense admitted that his client was guilty of the commission of the crime, but said that his defense would be insanity.

The court was in session throughout the day, when adjournment was taken this afternoon the jury had been empaneled. Tomorrow morning the case will be gone into on its merits.

The prisoner sat through today's session and exhibited keen interest in the proceedings. His wife was in court, and at intervals gave way to her feelings. The commonwealth's attorney is conducting the prosecution without assistance.

NO 19 DYNAMITE STICKS IN THE FREIGHT CARS

Boston, Mass., February 29.—No freight cars routed from Lowell Falls, Vt., to Philadelphia, during the last two weeks could have had nineteen sticks of dynamite attached to it at Lawrence or any stopping place within 100 miles of that city, according to a statement issued by the American Woolen Company today.

When the announcement appeared that a trainload of woolen goods and paper had reached Philadelphia with dynamite attached to the trucks of a car which had passed through Lawrence, an investigation was begun.

The woolen company's officials say that they traced such a paper car from Lowell Falls to Philadelphia on February 18, but that it did not go by way of Lawrence.

HE KILLED HIS FAMILY AND THEN KILLED SELF

San Francisco, February 29.—The bodies of Samuel J. Fisher, his wife and two grown daughters were found in the family home here today, each with a bullet hole in the head. A revolver was found in Fisher's hand, and he is believed to have shot the others and then killed himself.

Mrs. Fisher and the two daughters, Ruth, 17 years old, and Arleen, 18, were killed in their bed. The bodies were smoldering when the room was entered by the police.

No motive has been discovered.

STRIKERS WIN AT LAWRENCE

The Mill Owners Agree to Grant Concessions.

Lawrence, Mass., February 29.—The mill owners agreed to grant concessions to the operative, according to a statement made here late this afternoon. The proposed concessions are understood to include a wage advance of 5 per cent over the rate formerly paid for fifty-six hours work each week.

Prior to the departure of the 7:11 train for Boston, a crowd of about fifty persons gathered at the railroad station in the belief that a party of children was to be sent away, but upon learning that plans of the strikers to transport youngsters today had been changed, they soon dispersed.

Several lines of activity in connection with the strike were continued today. Important among these was the investigation regarding the legal side of the matter of exportation of children from the city.

The relief stations in various parts of Lawrence are daily becoming more crowded with applicants for food. Before each of the stations early today there were several hundred hungry ones, including a large proportion of children.

Much attention was given today by the strike leaders and the special children's committee to the arrangements for forwarding to Washington tomorrow a party of strikers, principally child workers, who are to appear before a congressional committee on Saturday as a living exhibit in connection with the strikers' story of their grievances.

JURY DISAGREED IN SNEED CASE

Out 112 Hours and Reached
No Verdict in Regard to Boyce Killing.

Fort Worth, Texas, February 29.—Standing seven for acquittal and five for conviction, the jurors who tried John Boyce, charged with the murder of a cattle king, were discharged today, hopelessly disagreed.

Snead, a wealthy banker of Amarillo, Texas, believed Captain Boyce had tried to kidnap him, and shot him, according to the defense admitted that his client was guilty of the commission of the crime, but said that his defense would be insanity.

The trial of Sneed began January 29, the jury being finally selected February 3. The case went to the twelve men Saturday night, at 9:30 o'clock, and for three days they begged the judge to discharge them, announcing in less than twelve hours after getting the case that they were hopelessly disagreed. The defendant was tried to a verdict of acquittal.

The Boys had no comment to make. On October 13 last Mrs. Sneed told her husband that she loved Al Boyce, and wished to go to South America with him. Snead sent his wife to a sanitarium, saying he believed her insane. From that institution, she wrote to Al Boyce.

"If God will, I will come and take me out of this madhouse," she wrote.

November 8 Boyce eloped with her from Fort Worth, and then began a chase by Snead, in which the banker was killed. He was shot in the back by Snead on December 24 at Winnipeg, Canada, where the Canadian authorities held them in custody, and where Mrs. Snead was sent back to the Texas sanitarium, after which Snead was told the Boyce were plotting to kidnap him.

Thirteen Snead shot and killed Captain Boyce as the latter sat in a hotel lobby at Fort Worth.

36 PRISONERS SHOT TO DEATH

Revolt in a Mexican Penitentiary Followed by Summary Punishment.

Laredo, Texas, February 29.—Thirty-six lives paid the penalty of yesterday's revolt in the penitentiary at Monterrey, Mexico, according to incoming passengers today. These passengers said that six of the prisoners were killed during the outbreak and that twenty-five others, regarded as ringleaders, were executed at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

There were about 3,000 prisoners in the institution. Today's reports do not account in detail for all the deaths. Last night's reports said the revolt of the penitentiary was among the slain.

PROGRESS IN ELECTRIC PROBE.

The council committee on electric and other railways has postponed until Monday its further consideration of the electric probe, with the understanding that negotiations now on foot may effect a compromise mutually satisfactory to the people and the corporation.

The corporation's attitude in not objecting to investigation of its light and power rates, and fighting investigation of its trolley fares, persisted in, will simply sharpen the determination for an eventual show-down that shall include every branch of its service. For the corporation to open all avenues save that leading to its trolley fare department is to take the surest way to challenge human nature to compel an opening of that particular door also.

Each one of the corporation's functions affects the people. For it to attempt to dictate which of those functions shall be investigated and which let alone, should supply to the committee and to council the most direct stimulus to perform their duty and insist that the people have full knowledge regarding all functions. There need be no misgiving regarding the effect of such a complete investigation upon the coming of outside capital. In no quarter is there any desire or intention to deal unfairly with or mulct the corporation. The entire record of Atlanta's attitude toward capital refutes that fear. All the people demand and all they will justify is such an investigation as will disclose the basis upon which rates equitable alike to them and the corporation can be granted. The issue will come before the commission in a judicial, non-partisan capacity. If rates now prevailing, in any phase, are just and reasonable, they will not be disturbed; if the commission, after reviewing evidence by both sides, decides that certain reductions can be made with fairness to corporation and people, they will be decreed. That is all there is to it, and we repeat, with emphasis, that it is even more to the interests of the corporation than the people to call for an inquiry that shall clear up every point at issue and leave no Damocles sword hanging over its head into an indefinite future.

In this connection, we present in another column a striking presentation of the demand of prominent Atlanta business men for a reduction of trolley fares, growing out of a study of the finances of the corporation made in their behalf by R. A. Broyles and endorsed by prominent Atlanta members of the local and state boards of the Travelers' Protective Association. These Atlantans want no undue or unfair favors from the corporation, but it can be seen at a glance that they are sufficiently aroused in the matter to go to the very bottom, if that is necessary, to gain rights they believe can legitimately be given the people of Atlanta.

This spirit of determination for full knowledge and full readjustment typifies the attitude of the entire community toward the pending probe. In the light of such sentiment it is the duty of council to insist upon, and the interest of the corporation to agree to, a settlement that does not neglect one phase of this public utility's activities. To give free play to public demand in one quarter and dam it up without rhyme or reason in another would be a dereliction of duty on part of council and a fatal error in policy on part of the corporation.

A STINGING NORTHERN REBUKE.

"You people down south seem to be cowards for not taking hold of your opportunities. You have deluded yourselves with the idea that no southerner can be a presidential nominee. It is too late in the day to talk of sections or sectionalism. What we want is the best man."

That is the indictment of southern political manhood—a justifiable one, too—brought back from New York city by Alfred C. Newell, prominent Atlanta business man and formerly conspicuous among the political writers and experts of metropolitan journalism.

Mr. Newell, who gives his views in another column, attended while in New York a dinner of the "Amen Corner," an organization of political writers. He questioned one of the best-informed political writers in New York regarding northern sentiment as to the presidential candidacy of a southern man. Like a shot, the answer came as in the first paragraph of this editorial.

The opinion of this northern political specialist bears out seriatim what The Constitution has contended in protesting against that sectional abasement that gave sectionalism an excuse for fearing that a southerner could not be elected to the white house. Time and again The Constitution has branded this feeling as cowardice, pure and simple, showing that the north had long ago abandoned the superstition of sectionalism in politics and was amazed that the south still clung to it.

Mr. Newell's experience confirms the assertion to a nicety. The north, as he shows, is eager and willing to accept southern men, given the ability. How long will the south permit the skeptical and cowardly attitude of a few of its leaders to indict its self-respect in the eyes of the nation, to place an embargo upon southern statesmen serving the nation in that exalted role for which their proved abilities qualify them?

INCREASING ATLANTA'S INDUSTRIES.

Among the striking plans projected by the chamber of commerce for the material welfare of Atlanta is that looking toward the establishment of an industrial bureau, the chief function of which shall be to encourage large and small manufacturing enterprises to locate in the Atlanta district. B. Mifflin Hood is chairman of the committee charged with investigating the matter in all of its phases, and he is now outlining a tentative scheme of organization.

Work of this nature originally devolved on the regular office staff of the chamber. Of recent years, however, the field covered by the chamber has broadened so radically that the secretary and his assistants are unable to give to the promotion of new industries the concentrated and continuous attention the subject demands. Hence the project for an industrial bureau.

The time is especially ripe for the aggressive pushing of Atlanta's claims in this connection. Every city of any importance in the south is bending every energy to attract new enterprises, bringing to the task organization of the most highly specialized description. Much good work has already been done for Atlanta, but if this city is to meet the competition of other southern centers upon a basis of equality it is essential that we adopt their live tactics.

From the standpoints of location, of transportation facilities and of command of raw material, Atlanta stands unique in this section as offering a site for manufacturing enterprises of every nature. More pay rolls added to the city's lengthening list, more workers to its mechanical and clerical army, are needed to make stronger the solid basis of prosperity thus far developed. A bureau of industries will materially promote that end.

 "I see by the papers," said the major,
 "That Dr. Wiley says a man can live for forty days on a bushel of wheat. That'll cost him about a dollar and a quarter, which would be going some towards swatting the food trust. Now, it is my belief that he can likewise live forty days on a gallon of 'corn,' and since we raise both of them—and other things that go with the latter—I think we shall bring the cost of living low enough to play football with it!"

It's pretty late, as we count the days in Dixie, for one to be standing at a winter-window, watching the wild signals of the Wind—that he wants to come in and warm his icy fingers at your friendly fire; and talking about 'fingers'—I think that as the day is unkindly cold, I'll just take four this time, and reduce the quantity of sweetening, so as not to be suspected of a leaning towards the Sugar Trust!"

STEEL TRUST ANSWERED BY THE GOVERNMENT

Trenton, N. J., February 29.—The United States government at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon filed in the United States district court here a replication to the answers of the United States Steel Corporation and the fifty-five other defendants in the suit by the government for the dissolution of the steel corporation.
 There are nine separate replications identical in language. They are in answer to the nine different answers filed by the defendants individually and in groups.
 The replications are purely formal, and say that the government "doth and lawfully demand" that the steel trust be true, certain and sufficient in law to the answers of the defendants.
 The replications are signed by District Attorney John H. Wickham, Attorney General George W.ickersham and Special Counsel J. H. Dickinson and Henry H. Colton.

DR. H. C. SPENCER FOUND WITH HEAD BLOWN OFF

Gainesville, Fla., February 29.—With the top of the head shot away and showing other marks of violence, the body of Dr. H. C. Spencer, missing since Monday night, was found today about five miles southeast of the city. Five negroes have been arrested in connection with the crime.
 The last seen of Dr. Spencer was when he started to a turpentine still about three miles from town late Monday night. When he failed to return, a search was made, revealing his automobile and medicine case overturned against a fence on the road leading to the still.

PERSIANS FEEDING ON HUMAN FLESH

Startling Allegations of Cannibalism Made by American Traveler.

Washington, February 29.—Startling allegations of cannibalism among starving Persians are contained in letters to the Persian-American Educational Society here from Dr. Susan I. Moody, in Teheran. She declares fathers are eating their children and children are eating each other in northwestern Persia. In the vicinity of Hamadan, where famine has followed the sacking of twenty-five towns and villages by the rebel troops of Salard Ed Dowleh, brother of the deposed shah. Forty thousand people are starving, it is declared, and the society has started a relief fund. The American National Red Cross also will be asked for assistance.
 Until new crops have been grown and harvested there will be no opportunity for the homeless people to help themselves. The people of Teheran, Dr. Moody says, have been raising money to relieve the stress and have forwarded $5,500 to buy food.
 Salard Ed Dowleh, who led the rebellion, has been placed in official position as governor of the province. The Russian sphere of influence in northern Persia. Recently the Persian government signified its willingness to grant him about $1,000 a year and restore to him the situation in the province by order of W. Morgan Shuster while he was treasurer general of Persia. This was conditional on his living abroad.

TO INTEGRITY OF CHINA POWERS ARE PLEDGED

Washington, February 29.—England, Russia, Germany and Japan have received favorably the invitation to place themselves on record with the United States for the continued integrity of China and joint action without seeking individual advantage in any concerted movement of the powers which may become necessary in the present disturbances.
 France, Italy and Austria, to whom copies of the note were sent at the same time, have not responded.
 The interchange was called forth by Secretary Knox's letter on February 3 to Count von Bernstorff, the ambassador from Germany, in which the views and the attitude of the United States toward the situation in China were made a subject of record.
 Diplomats generally interpreted the note as an indication that Germany and the United States were agreed, and would stand together to continue the integrity of China, while at the same time it was construed as an invitation to other powers to place themselves on record.
 Great Britain and Germany in their replies, say that the attitude of the United States is quite in accord with their own. Japan and Russia indicate their concurrence with the policy of non-intervention and common action.

SACCHARINE IS BARRED BY THE PURE FOOD LAW

Washington, February 29.—By a vote of two to one the board of cabinet officers charged with the enforcement of the pure food law today entered a final decision against the use of saccharine in prepared foods. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nye, confirmed the decision that food containing saccharine was adulterated. Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh dissented. One month's grace will be given manufacturers to arrange for the elimination of saccharine.
 After three days of experiments the Remsen board reported that the addition of saccharine to food as a substitute for sugar "must be regarded as a substitution involving a reduction in the food value of the sweetened product, and hence a reduction in its quality."

A decision then was made that the use of saccharine would be prohibited after July 1, 1911. On appeals from the manufacturers, however, the time was extended. Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, signed the original decision prohibiting the use of saccharine, but further hearings evidently convinced him that its use in very small quantities should be allowed, so that he dissented from the opinion rendered today.
 Dr. Wiley opposed saccharine from the opening of the contest.

BALTIMORE'S RATES FOR THE CONVENTION

Owensboro, Ky., February 29.—In spite of the assurance of Robert Crain, chairman of the Baltimore convention committee, that hotel rates will not be raised in Baltimore during the national convention, Urey Woodson, secretary of the democratic national committee, insists that complaints at exorbitant rates are almost general among members of the national committee.
 When informed of Mr. Crain's statement, Mr. Woodson said: "I wish to deny that my complaint against Baltimore hotel rates was based upon treatment of myself, for the Kentucky delegation alone. This complaint is almost general among members of the national committee. Exorbitant rates in Baltimore hotels cannot deny they signed an agreement not to raise rates and the proof is abundant that the committee they are exorbitant rates. Baltimore hotels cannot deny they have raised rates outrageously. I ask Mr. Crain to produce these contracts. Let us have the proof. I deny that Mr. Crain, though he has been very kind in trying to do so, succeeded in getting for Kentucky or any other state so far as I am advised, a reasonable rate."

WIFE HAS RIGHT TO RIFLE POCKETS OF HER HUSBAND

Philadelphia, February 29.—According to a decision by Magistrate MacFarland here, a wife has a perfect right to rifle the pockets of her husband and take his last cent and the husband has no redress.
 The decision was made in the case of John Dorcas, arrested for non-support. Dorcas pleaded that he was forced to leave his wife, because she insisted upon going through his pockets nightly and relieving him of every cent she could find. The magistrate announced, according to law, that which belonged to Dorcas also belonged to Mrs. Dorcas and it did not make any difference how she got it.

Alcorn was killed about two months ago during a crusade led by the clergyman.

TRAVELING MEN CALL ON CONSTITUTION IN BEHALF OF TROLLEY FARE PROBE

Yesterday morning The Constitution received a call from a delegation of well-known Atlantans, members of the executive boards of the local and state divisions of the Travelers' Protective Association, who wished to place themselves on record as emphatically endorsing an investigation to disclose whether substantial reductions in car fares cannot justly be made by the Georgia Railway and Electric Company. These gentlemen had delegated R. A. Broyles, conspicuously identified with business and public affairs in Atlanta, to look into the matter tentatively and express their views in a communication to The Constitution.

According to each member of the delegation, the traveling men of Atlanta are practically a unit in demanding that trolley fares be included in the probe now pending of the other activities of the corporation. Mr. Broyles has made a study of the subject which goes to the very basis of the financial affairs of the company and which leads him, and those for whom he speaks, to believe there is no plausible reason why trolley fares should not be substantially reduced.

The delegation, comprised of citizens all prominent in their respective lines numbered among its members D. H. Wilder, T. T. Goodwyn, F. C. Everett, R. W. Cameron, W. P. Fain, E. A. Hartsock, W. R. Word, L. J. Danlington and W. P. Anderson. They explained that at their request Mr. Broyles had made inquiry into the matter; that they had consulted over the data he had compiled and that the ensuing document represented not only their own attitude, but they had reason to believe that of innumerable Atlantans with whom they had talked since the beginning of the current agitation.

The Delegation's Views.
 Mr. Broyles' communication, setting forth the position of the Travelers' Protective Association delegation follows:

"Editor Constitution: Apropos the subject under investigation as to whether or no the Georgia Railway and Electric Company is dealing fairly with its patrons, for the information of those concerned, I beg to submit the following:

"I personally visited the railroad commission at the state capitol and took from their records as shown by the report of said Georgia Railway and Electric Company for 1910 the following figures as to its capitalization, profits, etc. Its total capitalization is $21,811,000, to-wit:

"Common stock $3,514,400; its preferred stock $2,400,000; its bonds $10,897,000. After paying interest on its bonds all operating and maintenance of way and all other expenses, they report a net profit of $1,152,500, or a clear profit of over 10 1/2 per cent. Bear in mind this profit is on the common preferred stock alone, the interest on the bonds having been paid as expenses. I also learned the (to be) amazing fact that the railroad commission had authorized this proposed new company to issue stocks, bonds etc., to the tune of $57,000,000, Candler and Hillyer dissenting."

"But we should not overlook the fact that the real bosses were the stockholders, who were scattered from the lakes to the golf, and doubtless in foreign countries, and who had never met in full except by proxy. It was never on record where they met with a view to diminishing dividends, but always with a view to increasing them, and that, while I would not sign a petition to reduce fares, I would sign a petition with all the eagerness of my nature to have the commission to pass upon and determine if any concession could be made with justice to this company; and if it should be found no concessions could be justly made, it would dissipate with these impudences and prejudice which now exist in the minds of many of our citizens."

NORTHERNERS CHIDE SOUTH AT ITS OWN ABASEMENT

That the candidacy of William J. Gaynor for the democratic presidential nomination will be launched within the next few days, was the prediction made yesterday by Alfred C. Newell upon his return from New York.

Mr. Newell was the guest at the dinner of the Amen Corner, held at the Waldorf last Saturday evening. He was a charter member of the Amen Corner, originally an organization of political writers. This Amen Corner dinner is an annual event, politically notable. It is without partisanship or factionalism, but in the havoc of fun-making, which goes along with the dining, political careers are made, and frequently unmade.

"While I have not lived in New York for some years," said Mr. Newell yesterday, "and am no longer in politics or newspaper work, I was particularly pleased to accept the invitation to be with my old friends. The national situation is now most interesting. I had a good opportunity to get at the exact situation. At the dinner were over six hundred men, political writers and present, reporters, special writers and editors. It was a general assemblage of the clans. At the tables, arch political foes were juxtaposed. Across the board from Comptroller Prendergast, by whom I was seated, and who, by the way, was the only man of prominence I met, openly for Roosevelt, sat Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader. Roosevelt's effort for a third term is infuriating to most New Yorkers."

"I talked over the general situation with men who controlled the editorial policy of the most prominent papers in New York, and with men who have their ears close to the ground."

"Two facts struck me as significant. One was the movement just taking shape, to bring out Mayor Gaynor, the other was the cordiality with which the candidacy of Oscar Underwood is regarded in the north. I was in Boston several days after being in New York, and found this sentiment for Underwood as strong as it was in New York city."

"Correspondingly, I noted that no one who assumed to know, seemed to think that Woodrow Wilson would have the most remote chance of election. They are against him because they don't believe it possible for the party to elect him even if he secures the nomination."

"The talk everywhere seemed to be Gaynor and Underwood."

"The Gaynor men are just commencing to open up an active candidacy. Even the staunchest republicans admit that if Gaynor decides to toss his hat in the ring, he would make a formidable candidate. Many of those who claim that he would sweep New York state if nominated. Certainly Gaynor's popularity at this time cannot be questioned. There is a movement under way to bring Gaynor and Hearst together."

"Gaynor's own attitude towards his pending candidacy is puzzling. He has absolutely declined numerous invitations to go out on stumping tours, claiming that it was his ambition to make the best mayor New York ever had. It is generally conceded that Murphy, who controls the New York situation, will give Gaynor the ninety votes of his state in the Baltimore convention. With the tide of impetus behind him they claim that Gaynor will have the best chance."

"I found a surprise in a great many quarters over the inertia which seems to prevail in certain sections of the south over the candidacy of Oscar Underwood. The fact is, there is ten times more enthusiasm in New York city over Underwood than there appears to be in the south. In a rather tentative way, I suggested to 'Boy' Lyman, who swings the hammer stroke on one of the big dailies, that it was impossible to elect Underwood because of sectionalism."

"Forget it," he said.

"Then he went on to put fifty-seven varieties of questions to me, concerning Underwood's connection and predecessors."

Southern Cowardice.

"The truth of the business is," continued Lyman, "this man Underwood is bi-sectional. You people down south seem to be cowards for not taking hold of your opportunities. You have deluded yourselves with the idea that no southerner can be a presidential nominee, but take it from me, that Underwood has the support of this part of the country. It is too late in the day to talk of sections or sectionalism. What we want is the best man, and there are a lot of us up here who believe that Underwood is the real production."

"It is rather mysterious to find out what has killed off the Wilson sentiment, but it is an absolute fact that there is no sentiment for Wilson around New York."

"As to the republican tug of it, some of the republican light-browns are making an effort to get Hughes to resign, with the understanding that if he is elected, he will appoint Taft as chief justice of the supreme court of the United States. I was told Monday afternoon, that this was a movement to beat off Teddy. They don't discount Roosevelt's ability as a campaigner, and he will have back of him the largest fund of any man in the political market, an unlimited drawing account with George W. Perkins, Isidore Strauss, McCormick, Chicago, and other super-millionaires."

CITY NEWS

Charter is Amended.—The Plains bank, of Plains, Ga., Sumter county, was yesterday granted an amendment to its charter by Secretary of State Philip Cook, under which it will increase its capital stock from $25,000 to $50,000.

Townsend Visiting City.—W. R. Townsend, of Annulla, Glenn county, a successful planter, is in Atlanta for a few days, the guest of Nym Hunt, of Washington. Mr. Townsend has a large number of friends in Atlanta, and is being given a warm welcome by them.

Albert Weiblen Here.—Albert Weiblen, president of the Stone Mountain Granite Corporation, which recently took over that industry from the Venables on a long time lease, returned to Atlanta yesterday from New Orleans, where he has been residing for years, and is a guest at the Hotel Richmond. Mr. Weiblen will go to Stone Mountain today to view conditions as they exist there.

Two Bankruptcy Petitions.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the federal court yesterday by Charles C. Vaughan, of Atlanta, an accountant. His liabilities amount to $1,144 and no assets. J. Z. Lee, of Atlanta, an insurance collector, also filed a voluntary petition, showing liabilities aggregating $441, with $15 of assets.

Federation Anniversary.—The program committee of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, in charge of the exercises for the twenty-first anniversary of the Atlanta Federation, at Tenth and Washington streets, yesterday afternoon, went over the proposed exercises as far as completed last night and suggested additional features. The committee is composed of Jerome Jones, editor of the Journal of Labor, chairman, L. P. Mayfield, Thomas N. Scates, J. F. Bradford, R. V. Rocco and A. S. Albright. The committee will meet again tonight and will complete its work.

Poet Seeks European Color.—Jack Jones, the youthful son of Snellman, Ga., is off for Europe, where he expects to woo the poetic muse with the show of the Alps, the beauties of the Rhine and the blue skies of Italy. It is only a few weeks since Mr. Jones returned from Jamaica and Mexico, where he went in search of "local color" for poems, which he expects to include in a book of poems to be published early next year. In this book he will probably include the work during his European tour, which he expects to last for several months.

Johnston Goes to Birmingham.—William H. Johnston, of Chicago, president of the International Association of Machinists, who addressed that organization and a large assembly of Atlanta forces yesterday night at Tenth hall, left the city yesterday for Birmingham, where he will pass two or three days visiting the machinist locals in that section of Alabama. President Johnston is now on his first tour of inspection in the south, and from Birmingham he will go to Montgomery and thence to Nashville, Chattanooga and Memphis. Before returning to international headquarters in Washington President Johnston will take in New Orleans, Little Rock and all the Texas towns of importance.

J. C. LeBlanc Cleared.—J. C. LeBlanc, driver of the Patterson automobile ambulance, was yesterday cleared of a charge of reckless driving in the accident on February 19, which cost the life of John R. Palmer, an employee of Guthman laundry, whom he ran over, judge Broyles decided that the occurrence was accidental, after hearing nearly a dozen witnesses. LeBlanc stated that he was on an emergency call, when near the corner of Forsyth and Hunter streets he was blocked by a line of many drags and street cars. In attempting to hurry on he passed to the left of the car, and as he ran around the end, the machine struck Palmer, who was going toward the sidewalk from the laundry wagon which he had just left.

Brooks Breaks His Leg.—Call Officer L. J. Brooks was thrown from his motorcycle yesterday morning at Decatur and Bell streets, breaking one of his legs. He was taken to the Grady hospital, where he is resting easily. Officer Brooks was going in the same direction as a peddler's wagon, and in attempting to pass around it was thrown to the ground. He will probably be away from duty several weeks.

No Explanation of Week.—Officials of the Seaboard Air Line railway declare that the straitening of the through vestibule train No. 33 Tuesday night, near Elberton, is unexplainable. G. R. Carlton, of the operating department, made a personal investigation of the wreck in which one man badly injured and a number of passengers badly shaken up, and states that he can find no reason for the first car leaving the track. The roadbed was in good condition and the rails were firm, according to Mr. Carlton.

Foot Tracks as Evidence.—John B. Daniel was bound over yesterday afternoon for burglary under $1,000 bond for the theft of a house of W. P. Wincoff, 37 Peachtree circle, last Monday morning. Mr. Wincoff partially identified the man. A knot on Daniel's left foot and a peculiar formation on his right foot, went far toward implicating him in the many attempted burglaries in Ansley Park and Inwood Hills, where bare foot tracks were left around the houses and under windows. Detectives McGill and Gillespie had diagrams and measurements of the tracks and an impression of the negro's foot to show the judge.

Moon Car Disappears.—A black and yellow Moon touring car, the property of T. H. Pitt, a real estate man of 18 Moreland avenue, was stolen from in front of his home last night shortly before Mr. Pitt wanted to go to town. Up to a late hour last night no trace had been found of the stolen car, and no clue to the thief, except that in Moreland avenue, was stolen from in front of his home last night shortly before Mr. Pitt wanted to go to town. New Models in Elgin Watches Complete for $5.50.

See Window Display.

The Elgin Watch Company has just put out a new model which we have in stock at $5.50.

This watch is a 16-size, 7-jewel, open-face movement, fitted in a screw bezel and back nickel case.

It is more sensible to purchase a movement in a good nickel case than it is to buy a watch with an inferior gold-filled case. This watch bears the usual guarantee which is backed by ourselves as well as the factory.

Knife Edge Evening Watches.

We are also showing a new Elgin model which is both handsome and unique. The cases come in various styles of plain, engraved and engine-turned. They are the regular 12-size cases, but have a new knife-edge effect—the face or dial about the size of the regular nought-size movements. These watches sell for $18.50 each.

You are invited to call and inspect these new models.

condition? And I have these facts from the secretary of that institution. "I tell you frankly I am more concerned in fighting the fight of the working women than the right of the working men."

"The appointment of a vice commission by the mayor to study the social evil would be a step in the right direction. Catholics, Jews and Protestants alike should be on this commission. Face the facts, men, as the men of Chicago and Minneapolis faced them. Every man on the vice commissions of those cities voted for the wiping out altogether, rather than segregation, of houses of ill fame."

Schools as Centers.—"The public school buildings should be used as neighborhood centers. I understand that the school board of Atlanta has agreed to the schools being open for social purposes. They are the people's property and should be used by them."

"I advocate compulsory education of children in Atlanta. Look at the low educational standing among your white children, not to mention the blacks. Can your city continue to grow if its young are ignorant?"

"Further, there should be provision made for the vocational and industrial education of children. A minimum percentage of graduates enter professional life in America; what provision is made for the vast army of those who, early in life, 'take a job'? After a boy is too big for his first job, about 15 years, what is he to do? He's had no training. A large per cent of the hobo class are derived from the ranks of these."

"Sanitary conditions of living should be provided by proper legislation. You have no tenement problem here, that is true; but don't fancy you can't have a worse one. There are some conditions in Atlanta far worse than any I ever saw in the tenement district of New York. The roadbed was in good condition and the rails were firm, according to Mr. Carlton."

Bring Worse Disease.—"Thousands of people in Atlanta have more shacks to live in. Negroes? All right, but these same negroes are your cooks, nurses and laundresses. They carry the worst disease, the worst disease. How can you segregate tuberculosis in the face of such facts?"

Let us stand for a square deal for all. The negro is here to stay. He's not going to form a Liberator republic in Africa. He was brought here against his will. Now the white man must help him solve his problem. Look on negroes as a pest in the gutter is to stay there with them."

"The scientific study of recreation should be taken up. The young person who shows no desire for recreation is a lost soul. In the Labor Temple in New York we have moving pictures on Sunday for the people who come to us. In the face of all the shows, amusements and games in the city, it is the height of absurdity to try to put an end to moving pictures, in any case, because some managers have shown a proper regard to it. It is they who show the right kind."

Don't Forget the Negro.—"Don't forget the negro in your plan for recreation. There's an ever present problem for you, if you've eyes to see and ears to hear, after a visit down Deatur street. The situation, as well stated in the words of a colored man, who said, in all sincerity, recently, 'Where's a nigger to meet a nigger in Atlanta if it's not in a near-beer saloon?'"

"These recommendations are offered not so much in the spirit of criticism as to point out what may be done to better conditions everywhere in your city. Above all, I would say one thing, be constructive in your planning and your acting."

At the conclusion of Dr. Stelzle's recommendations, there was a dead hush, and then quick, prolonged applause from the men present. Audible remarks, such as "that's right," "good," "that's what we need" were heard from time to time while he spoke. Dr. Stelzle has a compelling address, presenting his suggestions clearly and forcibly.

A mass meeting for all social workers, city and county officials and directors of philanthropies, was held at the Baptist Tabernacle Thursday afternoon, which was largely attended, by both men and women being present. In his talk and suggestions here Dr. Stelzle stressed preventive measures.

center, to which a man can take his wife and children, can, and should, be established in Atlanta. A mighty good step towards a substitute would be proper sanitation, and a sufficient wage to enable the wife to make something of the housework."

"Don't play paternalism toward the laboring classes. Don't work for the working men, but with them."

"Get the working man to church by having the right kind of church, the average church of the country today does not appeal to the working man."

Dr. Stelzle paid his respects to the "back to the country" movement. "The country will never solve the problems of the city. The tendency is all the other way, here, in Europe, and in Asia."

Survey of Local Field.

In his recommendations to churches, at the institute meeting Thursday night, Dr. Stelzle stressed, first, that every church should make a survey of its own local field, should know the residence, name, nationality, age, religion, attendance on church or school, of every man, woman and child in the parish.

"Give men men's jobs. It's the easiest thing in the world for them to hand out money. Make up a list of social work to be undertaken by various workers, and give the men interested in social service a definite job. Start this especially when they join the church, and their hearts are warm towards their fellow men. Develop a social service group in every church. Five hundred men pledged to social service in Atlanta could turn the town upside down. You need leadership in all such enterprises; efficient men who can and will step forward. The church should send a delegate to the meetings of the labor unions, and get in touch with what the men are doing and thinking, and show them ministers are living men."

Dr. Stelzle has a compelling address, presenting his suggestions clearly and forcibly.

SCHIFF'S VALET ROASTED BY DIX

Brandt is not worthy of a pardon. The governor says the statement is his "farewell word" in the case unless the higher courts set aside the writ of habeas corpus by which Brandt won his release.

The governor says he has no regret for his action and offers no excuses. Moral as well as legal considerations, he says, influenced him.

The Woman in Case.

Referring to the statement of Brandt and his attorneys that no attempt was made to attack the honor of a woman in the prisoner's appeal for clemency, the governor says:

"In regard to this particular feature of the case, there remains only to say that the application for clemency does include statements of a scandalous nature, and which reflect upon the integrity and honor of a woman who is mentioned by name."

"In the exercise of executive discretion it is as much my duty to protect the fair name of a woman and a mother, who has never had an opportunity to defend that which is dearer than life and liberty, as it is to protect the much-mooted and legal rights of one who has been convicted of a crime upon his own plea of guilty. In the letters submitted to me he has attempted to disprove the crime to which he formerly pleaded guilty by stating facts and uttering insinuations which would make him guilty of a still more heinous offense—an offense against the honor of his home by an accusation I utterly disbelieve. I refused, through the exercise of clemency, to condemn a man more despicable and insidious than burglary or assault by blasting the character and reputation of a woman and to invade the sanctity of a home by an unsupported statement of a self-confessed forger."

Honor of Woman.

"But while I frankly and deliberately base my refusal to extend clemency upon the fact that, in his effort to secure a pardon, Brandt has not scrupled to attack the honor of a woman and to invade the sanctity of a home, I also declare my conviction that the facts in the case, as presented to me, by no means indicated that the law had been violated in the conviction and sentence thereupon."

To sustain this point the governor points out that while District Attorney Whitman has expressed publicly the opinion that Brandt's indictment, conviction and sentence were illegal, he did not make any reference to such a contention in his report to him or urge a full and immediate pardon for the former valet.

Won in the Stretch.

When White Cape captured peeping Tom they noosed him neck and saving his miron. A tree, and parties waved blue. But when next morn they came around They found the wrong man in the ground—His rubber neck had saved him.

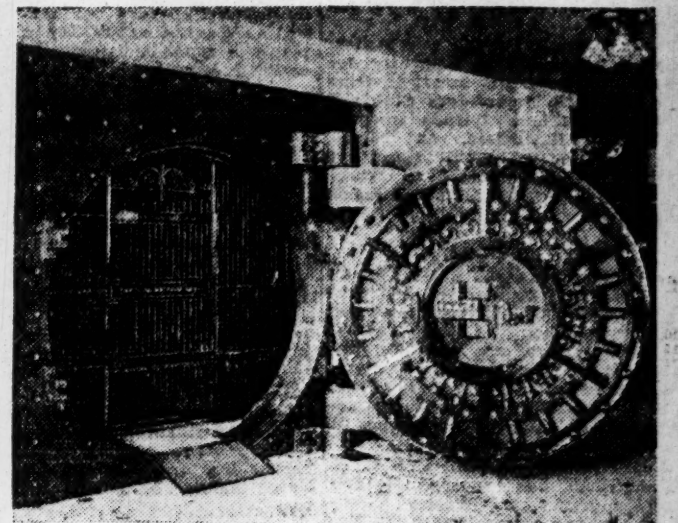

How to Reach the Followed.

In the discussion that followed, Dr. Stelzle was asked how the wealthy classes are to be reached, club and society men.

"Mainly through personal effort. You don't speak of masses of rich men; it's a failure. A campaign should be planned for them, but it would be different."

Fred B. Smith, national campaign leader of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, arrives in Atlanta this afternoon. He will speak at Du-

WILLIAM OSBORN DIES OF OLD AGE

End Comes After an Illness of Two Months' Duration.

Following an illness of two months, William Alexander Osborn, a prominent business man, died from old age this morning at 1 o'clock at the residence, 134 Angler avenue.

Mr. Osborn was one of the best known men of Atlanta, being a resident here since 1878. He was born in Putnam county. Until a few years ago he was in the real estate business, retiring from active work on account of feeble health.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary C. Osborn; two daughters, Mrs. M. O. Adams and Miss Pauline Osborn, and one son, George T. Osborn.

He had been a member of the First Methodist church for seventy-two years, and at the time of his death was a member of the board of stewards. He also was an active member of the local Masonic lodge. He was 86 years old. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Flour, Chemistry, and Her Ladyship

The average Housekeeper may not be a chemistry specialist, but it's a million molecules to a mince pie that she can tell you when she gets hold of a good flour.

She may miss it on the proportion of the carbohydrates to the albuminoids. She may not know the cuticle from the kernel. The art of milling may be an utter mystery to her; but—

You just let her see some other woman serve lighter, whiter, flakier biscuit or rolls than she herself can make, and there's going to be some Flour Talk pretty soon.

In most every case, the successful cook will tell you she uses KKK Flour.

KKK wins with the women every time because it's made that way. It rises up light, white and flaky. It bakes to perfection. It minimizes the chance for failures.

Try it, Your Ladyship!

EXPRESS TRAFFIC LOSS TO RAILWAYS

Witness Says That Railroads Make No Money Out of Express Companies.

Washington, February 29.—Operating officials of railroads, testifying today in the interstate commerce commission's investigation of the express companies, declared that the railroads made no profit out of express business.

W. A. Worthington, of the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific, would not say at the inquiry today that the express business handled by the railroads did not pay, but James Peabody, statistician of the Santa Fe System, testified that for January, 1910, there was an actual loss by his system of $80,749; there was a loss on the earnings of the system per car-foot mile on passenger trains, in accordance with an estimate prepared for the postmaster general.

"Summing up," said Mr. Peabody, "after charging the proper proportion of operating expenses, interest and taxes, the passenger service yielded a surplus of $25,064, and on the express business of $17,405." Mr. Peabody insisted that revenues of the railroads from express business were wholly inadequate. He objected to the reduction of the express rates because that would have a tendency, he said, to increase the shipment of certain classes of traffic by express, reduce the revenues of the railroads from freight traffic and overload the passenger service of the railroads, all of which carry express service on passenger trains.

"This," said Mr. Peabody, "is of serious public concern. The present passenger service of the railroads, especially in the west, is fully loaded and any increase will cause either heavy outlay for performing the service or a delay in the service, either of which is not desirable."

NATIONAL PRESS CLUB HOST TO THE PRESIDENT

Washington, February 29.—President Taft paid his annual visit to the National Press Club tonight, and explained to the several hundred members present that after see it was not so hard to be a chief executive of the nation as it was to be a judge.

"Executive ability," said the president, "is that sort of ability which enables you to put the work on someone else. I am bound to say that executive work is more wearing on the nerves than judicial work, because you don't have counsel on both sides or often you don't have any counsel at all, and sometimes decisions are not so unanimously acquiesced in as I think judicial decisions ought to be."

After his speech, the president shook hands with the members. Representative Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, an associate member, who after the announcement of Colonel Roosevelt's candidacy for the presidential nomination, said he would not enter into the campaign for delegates in his own district, was one of those who passed by to shake Mr. Taft's hand.

The editor of the Oyster Bay Gazette, said a factious member, as Mr. Longworth faced the president.

"I hope to let me see your next article before it is published," said the president, with a laugh.

Minnie behaved beautifully, waiting her red for with as much dignity as some of the visitors, but as she was passing a near beer saloon the smell of the liquid which she loves very much—was too much for her, and she jumped out and made a bee-line for the saloon, taking her keeper with her. She was persuaded to wait a while for her drink, and getting back into the cart she followed on after the rest of the candidates.

Gwinnett Farmers Behold.

Norcross, Ga., February 29.—(Special.)—The farmers in Gwinnett county are further behind with their work than in years, as the result of the continued rain and frozen lowlands are submerged in water, and no plowing has been done. Season Backward in Wayne.

Jesup, Ga., February 29.—(Special.)—The first of March will find Wayne county farmers badly behind with their spring plowing. There has been so much wet and cold weather that some farmers have not been able to do any plowing at all scarcely. In some instances farmers have had their old seed on hand, not having been able to sow them. Planting will be delayed this season, and poor preparation of the land in many cases will make the crop outlook rather poor as compared to last season. Very little commercial fertilizer has been sold up to date, and the farmers are not showing any disposition to do so on it very deeply this year.

The proposed plan for the yards will take in fifteen or possibly twenty tracks and the yard proper will be located two miles from the present station at Fowler's junction. The congestion of business has long demanded the increased facilities which are now assured.

Athens Gets Plow Plant.

Athens, Ga., February 29.—(Special.)—Today the last dollar of the $3,000, which was promised to the Norcross Plow Factory Company to move their plant to Athens, was raised by the chamber of commerce, and the management of the plant was wired the acceptance of the proposition made by that enterprise. The factory was originally the Buchanan Plow Works and is a $50,000 plant with a weekly payroll of about $500.

New Bank Formed in Athens.

Athens, Ga., February 29.—(Special.)—Athens is to have a new bank to be known as the "Athens City Bank." The capital stock is to be $50,000. The company was organized by John T. Anderson, of Athens, and the stockholders will all be Athens business men and bankers. A site has been leased and the vault will be installed in a few weeks. Work began on the building today.

The discovery was made four miles from Macon this morning by Lamar Clay, who lives in that vicinity.

New Law Firm Formed.

Cedartown, Ga., February 29.—(Special.)—Announcement was made today of the formation of the new legal firm of Rynn & Travick. Col. C. C. Rynn, Jr., who, until the death of his partner, Col. W. C. Rynn, was the junior member of the firm of Rynn & Rynn, and Col. W. H. Travick, who has been practicing alone, are the members of the new firm. The connection is a very strong one, and these two well established lawyers will at once take their rank with the leading lawyers of the state.

"TELL IT TO THE WORLD"

Says Texas Lady, in a Letter She Writes, Regarding Her Past Troubles.

Wills Point, Texas.—In a letter from this place, Mrs. Victoria Stallings says: "Words are too feeble to express my gratitude for what Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done for me."

I believe I would have been dead had I not gotten relief from Cardui, as I did.

I did not recover from my confinement as I should, so my mother advised me to take Cardui, and after taking half a bottle I was soon all right.

Before taking Cardui I had a dreadful cough and awful pains, but now I am strong and in better health than I ever was in my life.

I cannot say half enough in regard to its merits. You can tell the world what Cardui did for me. I advise all suffering ladies to try it."

Cardui has proven itself to be the ideal tonic for women. It is composed wholly of perfectly harmless, vegetable ingredients, which act specifically on the weakest womanly organs, helping to strengthen the muscles and nerves, and to build them up to health.

Cardui has been in successful use for more than half a century. Give Cardui a trial. It will help you.

Atlanta

New York

Paris

What Is The Fashion?

You Shall See Today in Atlanta's Authoritative Display of Spring Suits.

We used the word AUTHORITATIVE advisedly, for Paris has helped.

London has helped.

New York has helped.

Every suit in the display is either an exact copy or adaptation of a Paris or London model—and the only copy that Atlanta will see, as we are exclusive representatives of New York's most notable Americanizer of foreign fashions. But we do not accept all Paris sends just because Paris did send it. For instance:

Here is a suit of black taffeta, one of the most striking of the display—and one that you would hurry to call typically Parisian. Its coat is as much a heavy lace-like braid as taffeta—having a wide insert of this braid over the hips and across the back. The coat that this was adapted from was a little Eton jacket and could you see the two together you would the greater appreciate this improvement. But on the other hand we picture above two copies of Paris model suits—exact in every detail.

The one on the left is of blue serge. A one-button cutaway. One of the wide revers is of ecru lace. This extends around the collar and partly forms the other rever, that is of dark Copenhagen ratine, hand-embroidered in a shade of tan. Down the side back of the coat are bands of black braids that match in with the braiding on the skirt. Silk braids trim the seven-eighths length sleeves. The skirt has the raised waist line.

The other suit pictured is of silk poplin, that by any other name is still silk poplin, in a shade of cream just over the edge of white. It is a two-button cutaway, the cutaway extending to a point at the side that is finished with wide silk fringe. The seamless back is rather elaborately braided and hand-embroidered. The wide revers are covered with a rich, heavy lace; the sleeves are seven-eighths length—with turn-back cuffs.

The skirt is a tunic without the usual fullness of a tunic. It is caught in at the side by a fringed sash and embroidered and braided as the coat.

It is a display of the season's novelties—of the very suits that set the fashion.

But it is not for this advertisement to tell you wherein lies the beauty, nor to adequately describe the grace and charm of the new things. This it flatly cannot do. It can but tell you in dull generalities that they are suits that show the artistry of wonderful designing; that you will exclaim over; that you will want for your own.

There are little coats that seem weighted with their rich braids and laces and hand-embroidery; others that seem more of wide revers than of coats—this because of the general tendency toward the cutaway—and yet other suits that are elegantly simple. Skirts are still narrow, but here is a black taffeta that has three rows of ruffles. Another is very plain and has all its fullness gathered at the shirred waist. The use of sashes is prominent.

The materials are taffetas, satins, charmeuse, silk poplins, French ribbed silks, mistral and serges; and here is a suit of a Paris made changeable frosted silk in two shades of blue. It is soft like a satin, but it is as sturdy as wool—in fact, the back of it looks more like wool than what it really is—all silk.

There is a more than usual amount of embroidery this season—silk embroidery and embroidery on white—Swiss and marquises and the collars and cuffs; rufflings are used and heavy laces and ornamental buttons.

But come tomorrow and see just how all these materials and trimmings are worked into beautiful suits. It is a display to see, not to read about.

It is Atlanta's authoritative display—it will answer that all important question—what is the fashion?

Prices range from $50.00 slowly up to $125.00.

QUESTION IS PUT BY CHAIRMAN LEE

Asks if Office-Holders May Stump for Roosevelt.

Says Taft Officials Are Campaigning, and Thinks Same Rule Should Apply to Colonel's Friends—Black, of the Civil Service, Replies.

Washington, February 29.—The question of whether federal office holders will be permitted to do political work for President Taft or Colonel Roosevelt in the campaign for the republican presidential nomination has been brought before the civil service commission.

Edmund Lee, of Indianapolis, former chairman of the republican state central committee of Indiana, who is now reported to be active in politics for President Taft, has written a telegram which he addressed to Chairman John C. Black.

Lee asks the commission to say if some federal office holders are permitted to work for Colonel Roosevelt, if others are permitted to work for President Taft, he wants to know what punishment will be administered to those who may violate the prohibition against political activity. He asks if a federal office holder will be disturbed in his office if he refuses to take part in the contest.

While the republican national committee was meeting in Washington last December, Lee issued a statement declaring President Taft could not carry Indiana. Later he was defeated for re-election as chairman of the Indiana state central committee.

Copies of the correspondence between Lee and Chairman Black were made public here tonight.

Lee's Telegram.

Lee's telegram was as follows:

"For certain reasons many federal office holders under the civil service law are now active in politics for the purpose of securing delegates for Mr. Taft to the Chicago convention. Many of these office holders are permitted to work for Colonel Roosevelt as the republican nominee. If some federal office holders are permitted to work for President Taft, will others be permitted to work for Colonel Roosevelt? If no federal office holders can take part in this contest, but under the civil service law remain neutral, what is the punishment for their taking part?"

"Many of the office holders of Mr. Taft do not wish to do so, but are led to believe that they must. In case any federal office holder refuses to take part in the contest will he be disturbed in his office because he does refuse? An answer to these questions is earnestly desired because it is important, not only from the point of view of square deal, but also from a clear understanding of what the civil service law requires under all the circumstances stated and whether it is to be enforced."

Chairman Black Replies.

Chairman Black's replies to the three direct questions follow:

"1. The commission is not aware that some federal office holders are permitted to work for any candidate. The commission exercises its jurisdiction with strict impartiality, inquires into the activities of competitive employees violating the act and rules without regard to their political affiliations, and makes such recommendations as the nature of the case demands, irrespective of political considerations. The conclusion is obvious that the commission cannot permit any person over whom it had jurisdiction to be improperly active in political affairs."

"2. With reference to the punishment to be inflicted upon a person found to have been politically active in violation of the civil act and rules, it is to be observed that punishment will depend upon the nature and degree of the activity, and will extend to criminal prosecution, separation from the service, or lesser discipline, as the case may seem to require and the law and rules provide."

"3. In reply to the inquiry whether a federal officeholder will be disturbed in his office because he refuses to take an active part in the campaign, your attention is invited to the executive order of February 8, 1912, revising the civil service rule relating to removals and reductions. That rule applies to persons in the competitive service, and, of course, has no application to federal officers whose appointments are made by the president. Your attention is also invited to the executive order of December 20, 1911, showing the punishment to be inflicted upon rural carriers who take an active part in political management or in political campaigns."

Commission Limited.

Chairman Black says that the commission's jurisdiction, however, is limited.

SALOON LEASE CASE DECIDED

Potts-Thompson Liquor Company Must Pay the Rent.

A case which has been pending for a number of years in Fulton superior court, and which has attracted much attention on account of the amount involved as well as its peculiar principle, was terminated yesterday by the decision of the supreme court of Georgia, affirming the court below.

The Capital City Tobacco Company in 1905 leased from the Collier estate for a term of five years the building at the intersection of Peachtree street and Decatur street and Edgewood avenue for a total rental of $15,000, and sublet half of the lease to the Potts-Thompson Liquor Company at the same rate.

A handsome saloon, known as the Ira, was established by the sub-tenants in the rear portion of the building, and was conducted until the enactment of the prohibition law, when it was discontinued.

The Potts-Thompson Liquor Company declined to pay the rental of rent assumed by the sub-contract, alleging that the operation of the prohibition law made it impossible to perform the contract of rental without violating the law, and suit was brought by the Capital City Tobacco Company to enforce the contract.

The case was tried before Judge George L. Bell, of Fulton superior court, and under his charge the jury rendered a verdict for the full amount claimed by the plaintiffs.

Judge Bell overruled the motion of the defendants for a new trial, and the decision of the supreme court Thursday approved his action, making the verdict in favor of the plaintiffs final.

The plaintiffs were represented in the litigation by Col. P. H. Brewster, of the firm of Dorsey, Brewster, Howell & Heyman, and by Messrs. Moore & Pomeroy, while the defendants were represented by Messrs. Ellis, Wimble & Ellis.

ited, and extends to the investigation of all acts of alleged improper political activity contrary to the civil law, on the part of competitive classified employees of the United States and unclassified laborers and another class of cases not within the jurisdiction of the commission, namely, cases of alleged political activity on the part of the officials on the outside of competitive classified service, but within the departmental or executive civil service, as declared by executive orders.

PRESIDENT TAFT IS INDORSED
BY SOUTH CAROLINA FACTION
Columbia, S. C., February 29.—One of the two self-styled "regular" republican organizations in South Carolina today held its convention and pledged its support to the renomination of President Taft. The convention adopted four delegates-at-large to the Chicago convention, and instructed to vote for the nomination of President Taft.

The delegates elected were J. W. Tolbert, state chairman; J. Duncan Adams, United States marshal; J. R. Levy and W. T. Andrews. The latter two are negroes.

This wing of the party, which is opposed to John G. Capers, national committeeman, endorsed Tolbert for the position of national committeeman. The convention held today was attended by delegates who claim that their wing of the party is the only "regular" organization. The Capers executive committee, which also calls itself regular, will meet here March 1.

There was no demonstration for Colonel Roosevelt, the instruction resolution being adopted unanimously. J. Duncan Adams, after the meeting, said that detectives had been sent to watch the convention, but he and his followers paid no attention to their presence. District delegates will be elected later.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT SPLIT

IN MISSOURI CONVENTION

Excelsior Springs, Mo., February 29.—President Taft and Theodore Roosevelt, in a convention marked by disorderly scenes, divided honors in a contest today for delegates from the third district of Missouri to the national convention at Chicago. Two Taft delegates and two Roosevelt delegates were chosen.

The Roosevelt delegates are the first from any part of the country to be instructed for him.

The contest between the factions developed early. When the Roosevelt supporters arrived at the convention hall they found the doors barricaded, and the Taft men in control. After some time, Roosevelt men were admitted. Then, amid confusion and uproar, a dual convention was held. Both factions chose delegates and alternates to the national convention, and each side contends its delegates are regular.

Luff hit Calhoun from the open door of an empty freight car and proceeded to cast about for a "hand out." SPEAKER CLARK AND MISSOURI DOG SONG boys keep a-kickin' my dog around.

Makes no difference if he is a hound. They gotta quit kickin' my dog around.

At last Missouri has a state song. It was not written in response to the offer of a $500 prize for an anthem that would fittingly extol the glories of the state. No, indeed! This song has been hummed or droned or whined in the Ozark mountains for years, but it never left that hilly region until a few weeks ago. Then it caught on, and its fame is now nation-wide. Governor Wilson, of New Jersey, listened to it on a recent visit to St. Louis, and then decided that Chapin Clark, Missouri's favorite son, was welcome to the song as a campaign document. The song was given a further boost at the democratic convention at Joplin, where the words and music were distributed.

CHEAPER POWER MAY BRING

MANUFACTORIES TO ATLANTA

The outcome of the effort now being made to secure lower rates for power from the Georgia Railway and Electric Company will have a significant bearing on the plans of the Central Railway of Georgia for building a belt line southwest of the city to develop factory sites. Should the price be reduced, Atlanta will immediately take a step forward as a factory center in the belief of J. T. Kimbrough, who has charge of the development project.

The Central Railway of Georgia has had the project under consideration for a number of years, and is prepared to at once build the line should certain concessions be made. The proposed line is to extend from East Point in a northwesterly direction for a distance of about ten miles, traversing a strip of land varying in width from one-half mile to a mile, owned by the Central Railway of Georgia. To build this line, it will be necessary to cross the tracks of the Atlanta and West Point railway and the Georgia Railway and Electric Company. Per- mission to do this is the principal concession desired by the Central Railway of Georgia.

A right of way within the corporate limits of East Point is also desired.

but it is practically assured that this will be granted.

Mr. Kimbrough plans to lay the proposition before the chamber of commerce and the Atlanta boosters in general to get them to exert their influence to have the Georgia Railway and Electric Company and the Atlanta and West Point railway grant permission to the Central Railway of Georgia to cross their tracks.

Mr. Kimbrough states that while the project is to enhance the value of property owned by the Central Railway of Georgia, the belt line will mean the development of much other property in this section.

Officials of the Atlanta and West Point railway stated Thursday that the position of the Atlanta and West Point road would be withheld until its officials more thoroughly understood the proposition of the Central Railway of Georgia.

Incidental to the development of these factory sites, Mr. Kimbrough states that he is negotiating for the sale of water rights which will produce 600 horse-power daily, near the proposed belt line. The purchaser proposes to build an electric plant to sell current to manufacturers at a low cost.

"CHICK" EVANS TAKES KNIFE

AS WOMAN GIVES CHLOROFORM

Chicago, February 29.—Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., one of the best known young golfers in America, will, under circumstances that have a touch of romance, be operated on for throat trouble tomorrow at Wesley hospital.

The anaesthetic will be administered at the request of Evans by Mrs. J. Anna Carpenter Hall, formerly Miss "Johnny" Carpenter, champion woman golfer, till she lost the title to Miss Bessie Anthony, but now a head nurse. In her golfing days Evans was Miss Carpenter's caddy and later he won fame with the clubs as a player. Miss Carpenter gave up golf to marry Dr. J. Verner Hall, head of the chemistry department at Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill.

Later reverses threw Mrs. Hall on her own resources, and she became a nurse. When Evans learned that an operation was necessary, he asked to go to Wesley hospital, because Mrs. Hall was there and because he wanted her to nurse him.

So far, Luff has made good in that he has come to Atlanta, too, he's looking for work, while his headquar- ters are at the Helpers' League. But whether or not he'll return to Calhoun when he had saved enough to pay his fine, even Luff admits is problematical.

Stiff

Jap After Goulon.

JOHNNY COULON, the bantam-weight champion of the world, and Young Togo, the Jap bantam, have been matched for twenty rounds for the championship of the world the latter part of March, according to a report from Fort Smith, Ark. Togo's stock has gone up several notches since he stayed six rounds with Battling Nelson on Monday night, and the Jap fighter will have plenty of backing when he enters the ring.

Another Charge.

ABE ATTILL is certainly getting himself in hot water continually. Jim Jeffries is throwing out a forgery charge in the former featherweight champion's face now. He claims that the telegram which was sent to Promoter Coffroth, stating that Attill should have had a draw and begging him not to call off the match between Murphy and Attill, were forgeries pure and simple. When Attill took advantage of his (Jeffries') absence from the city to send them, signing his name.

Padding Their Skill.

Champions are always overrated. The passing of Abe Attill was accompanied by a great deal of about how far he had gone back. But the chances are, that while Abe has slipped some, too much has been expected of him, for many years. When he was in his prime, he outpointed "Little" Chocolate George Dixon. He was young, wonderfully fast and at the top of his ability. Yet he could not altogether overwhelm the shell of the one-time great scrapper. It is even probable that, at his best, Dixon was a better all-around scrapper than was Attill.

Still Good Trader.

BOB HEDGES has pulled the only good trades of the winter season, except perhaps the swap of Street for Knight, which appears a fair exchange on both sides. Stovall for Georgia is another feature in the cap of the colonel.

Wants Some Bouts.

JEFF GAFFNEY, the fighting actor of New York, wishes to announce that the report that he has been knocked out in five rounds is false. He claims that he fought the new featherweight champion in Cleveland and in Pittsburgh, lost to him in six rounds in one bout, and went a draw with him in ten rounds in the other. Gaffney is open to fight any man in the world in 115 to 125 pounds, and is especially anxious to get on before one of the local clubs.

Someone Was Smoking.

NASHVILLE SCRIBES have been having one large pipe dream. They have been battling themselves into a back that they have had Daley clinched as guarding the left field station of the Volunteers during the winter season. This is a trifle premature on their part. Daley is slated for a thorough try-out in the majors, and if he does not make good he is going to be sent back to the Montgomery club, from whence he came.

Another Chance.

BIGGS RAYMOND is going to get another chance to make good. Mrs. Raymond has pleaded with Manager John McGraw that he allow him to go to the minor league club, Mrs. Raymond states that she is a subject matter. McGraw's heart has been softened by the plea and he is going to try to get the ex-Cracker reinstated.

Buy New Twirl.

MEMPHIS has purchased another twirl for its pitching staff. His name is Willis, and he was with Burlington, Iowa, in the Central Association last year. He is a right-hander. His record shows he won nineteen of the twenty-five games he twirled during the last season.

MACK SACRIFICED STAR TO WIN 1910 PENNANT

It has been the history of baseball that many times a baseball manager has obtained players for emergency and not to build on. For instance, a manager will see that he has a chance for a pennant. One of his positions is covered by the veteran in passing. The youth may show promise enough, but lacks steadiness and poise at critical moments.

What does the manager do? Bench or chase the youth, and gets some veteran player from another club. It doesn't matter if the veteran is passing, he will take him just the same, for he realizes that he will at least do the right thing at the time.

The best exemplification of this thought is Connie Mack's experience in 1910. Connie had a fine chance for the pennant, but was convinced that his prospects were jeopardized by a weak line in left field. Neither the aged Hartnell nor the youth, Heilmuller, firmed the ball, and Connie in midseason sent a scorch around for a suitable man.

He found that he could obtain Bris Lord, but at the expense of giving up Joe Jackson, Mack's property, who was then a sensation in the Southern League. Connie realized that Jackson's promise, but he also realized that he needed a reliable man in 1910, if he was going to win the pennant. He couldn't wait until Jackson was ready. So the trade was made. Lord came to Philadelphia and at once bolstered the stumping outfield. The result was that the Athletics won the pennant in 1910. Mack lost Jackson, but he obtained a dependable man in Lord, who last year advanced to the 300 club in hitting.

This was not the first Mack gave Jack Knight and $10,000 in cash to boot to Boston for Jimmy Collins. Mack saw that he had a chance for the championship and made the deal to strengthen his club at third base, his weakest spot.

Mack was not as fortunate as in 1910. He didn't win the pennant, but was nosed out by Detroit. However, the addition of Collins saved the purpose of putting the Mackmen in the race. His coming added new interest to the team, and Collins drew thousands of dollars into the game. Mack failed to make the deal the club would have made a very little money that year, but as it was a trade, a fortune.

The Columbian League is striking at the very heart of the national pastime. Now we are not among those who see grief for the game in the operation of this organization without the pale of the National Commission. The other leagues will rock along in much the same way in which they have been rocking since Father Chadwick gave the cradle its first shove. But the Columbian League is doing something really dangerous.

A park has been issued by its president placing the ban on peanuts in the parks under his jurisdiction. Since the first ball was made and the first bat appeared, baseball and peanuts have been linked inseparably. No sincere bleacherite could sit through a gameless game. No follower of the averages could witness the sport without at least a dime's worth. The Columbian league rule is the most radical change made in baseball since the adoption of the foul-strike rule. If the Columbian League succeeds in enforcing this pindar prohibition the game is doomed, but it is more than likely that the peanut is more potent than the Columbian League and that organization is doomed to fall by the wayside if it does not lift the ban.

Old Cy Young is going to write a history of his life. There is no question as to the volume's interest. Every bug will buy it. The question is whether old Cy will live long enough to complete it. Of course, Cy is still healthy and robust, but there is such a thing as a task too great for a second Hercules or T. R. Julius Caesar used up seven perfectly good books in telling just about his campaigns. His labors have caused a billion boys to fret. Now J. C. figured in quite a few bickerings. That's admitted, but old Cy has officiated on more stricken fields than J. C. ever thought of seeing before Brutus at Tied him, and it took seven books to tell of the Roman's operations. It will take three or four five-foot book shelves to accommodate Denton T.'s literary efforts.

A demon scribe in Memphis has come out of the darkness with this: "Harry Wolverton was evidently trying to pave a way to victory when he traded a Knight for a Street." As far as we are informed, the gentleman guilty of this still lives.

Philadelphia, once so modest, sleepy and shy, has perked up. There was a time when Philadelphia was proud to have one major league team. There was a time when the Quakers sat up and howled when Connie copped the American League bunting. Still, again they were reasonably satisfied when Mack came back with two world rags in succession, but now they are clamoring for Doolin to take the measure of McGraw, Chance et al., and have all the honors of the baseball world sewed up right in the home of William Penn and American liberty. The Philadelphia papers can see no possibility of Mack losing this season and they are putting forth fervid claims that Doolin has a good chance to land in the National.

MOBILE FIVE CHALLENGES BIRMINGHAM FOR TITLE

Mobile, Ala., February 29.—(Special.) The much talked of basketball game between the Birmingham Athletic Club five, claimants to the championship of the south, and the Mobile Y. M. C. A. team, will likely be played at some near future date, as Manager Warren Christian, of the local club, has sent out a challenge to the Magic City aggregation, expressing a desire to meet them on a neutral court, which will most probably be Montgomery. The Birmingham five has defeated the Columbus, Ga., five American league team, and on this showing they base their claims to the championship. Mobile and Birmingham have not met this season because of the fact, it is claimed, that during the 1910 season the locals refused to play the Birmingham five, alleging unfair play and unusually rough tactics. In addition to this, the Birmingham five refused to meet the Birmingham five, alleging unfair play and unusually rough tactics. In addition to this, the Birmingham five refused to meet the Birmingham five, alleging unfair play and unusually rough tactics.

CHICAGOANS ARE FLAT-FOOTED, ROUND SHOULDERED AND FAT

Chicago, February 29.—Flat feet, round shoulders and the tendency to acquire a paunch are the three typical ills with which Chicagoans are not at all satisfied. According to Martin Delany and Dr. E. A. White, physical trainers, respectively, of the Chicago Athletic Association and the Illinois Athletic Club, the most marked characteristic, according to Delany, is the tendency to develop an increased waist line and a consequent drooping of the shoulders.

MARTIN WALSH FRANK GOTCH NOW A CRACKER

Brother of Ed Walsh, of the Chicago White Sox, Is Signed.

Martin Walsh, the younger brother of Ed Walsh, the spital artist of the Chicago White Sox, was signed by the Crackers yesterday afternoon. This increases the Crackers' reserve list to thirty-one. Martin is a spit-baller, too, and said to be even larger than his brother. He was with the Norfolk club in the Virginia League last season. He worked in twenty-three games in 1911, winning twelve and losing eleven, a percentage of .522. But he worked with the Norfolk club against his best interests, therefore did not give his best services. Martin is also some better, it is said. He played in twenty-five games in all in 1911, working some in the outfield. He hit .292, which is not very bad clouting. Walsh was touted strong to Hemphill when the Atlanta mogul was in New York, and he had the deal made, but he was finally consummated Friday.

Walsh's advent as a Cracker brings the pitching staff up to eleven men. There are besides Walsh, Miller, Johns, Paige, Atkins, Britton, Dossau, Mayer, Reville and Hogue.

WOLVERTON HERE WITH TRAINER

Yankees' Boss Arrives in the City Today, Team on Sunday.

Harry Wolverton, manager of the New York Americans, and Trainer J. J. Mulcahy will arrive in Atlanta this afternoon to arrange all plans for the arrival of the main body of the team which gets in here Sunday. Wolverton was due in Atlanta last Sunday, but owing to some personal business engagements in Philadelphia, he was unable to get away before. He left Philadelphia yesterday for this city with Mr. Mulcahy as a companion. Immediately upon their arrival here they will go to Ponce de Leon park to arrange the clubhouse for the reception of the players. Trainer Mulcahy has a busy time ahead of him getting everything in shape for his first aid to the injured course at the clubhouse at the park. Hal Chase, the veteran first sacker and last year's manager, will have charge of the squad, and leaves New York Saturday. The squad will be accompanied by the newspaper men who will report the games for the New York papers. They will pick up several of the other players while en route south. Bright and early Monday morning the squad will be at work at Ponce de Leon.

GRANTLAND RICE COMES TO ATLANTA

Grantland Rice, a Southern League newspaper writer, that Atlanta "sent out" to the big time some of the best 400 with the pencil and fielded 1,000 with the typewriter ever since, is in Atlanta.

One of the younger and more progressive of the advertising men in New York is MR. FRANK McCABE, who is director-general of the million or more want ads, that are printed yearly in The New York World.

Mr. McCabe recently gave a very strong address on THE RELATION OF CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING TO NEWSPAPER SUCCESS, and one incident he cited EMPHASIZED THE POWER OF THE LITTLE AD.

MR. EDWARD EARL, president of the Nassau National Bank, who recently celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary with that institution, GOT HIS JOB BY REPLYING TO A WANT AD. in the New York newspapers. He started there in a small way and evidently did his work well, because the time came when he was elected president of the bank.

Of course, every man ad, won't make every man who answers it a bank president, but if he gets a job through an advertisement, IF HE HAS THE RIGHT MATERIAL IN HIM, there is no telling where he will land.

It is so with all branches of advertisements. WE NEVER KNOW WHEN WE ARE GOING TO BE BENEFITED BY READING THEM—therefore, read them all!

One of the younger and more progressive of the advertising men in New York is MR. FRANK McCABE, who is director-general of the million or more want ads, that are printed yearly in The New York World.

Mr. McCabe recently gave a very strong address on THE RELATION OF CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING TO NEWSPAPER SUCCESS, and one incident he cited EMPHASIZED THE POWER OF THE LITTLE AD.

MR. EDWARD EARL, president of the Nassau National Bank, who recently celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary with that institution, GOT HIS JOB BY REPLYING TO A WANT AD. in the New York newspapers. He started there in a small way and evidently did his work well, because the time came when he was elected president of the bank.

Of course, every man ad, won't make every man who answers it a bank president, but if he gets a job through an advertisement, IF HE HAS THE RIGHT MATERIAL IN HIM, there is no telling where he will land.

It is so with all branches of advertisements. WE NEVER KNOW WHEN WE ARE GOING TO BE BENEFITED BY READING THEM—therefore, read them all!

WOLVERTON HERE WITH TRAINER

Yankees' Boss Arrives in the City Today, Team on Sunday.

Harry Wolverton, manager of the New York Americans, and Trainer J. J. Mulcahy will arrive in Atlanta this afternoon to arrange all plans for the arrival of the main body of the team which gets in here Sunday. Wolverton was due in Atlanta last Sunday, but owing to some personal business engagements in Philadelphia, he was unable to get away before. He left Philadelphia yesterday for this city with Mr. Mulcahy as a companion. Immediately upon their arrival here they will go to Ponce de Leon park to arrange the clubhouse for the reception of the players. Trainer Mulcahy has a busy time ahead of him getting everything in shape for his first aid to the injured course at the clubhouse at the park. Hal Chase, the veteran first sacker and last year's manager, will have charge of the squad, and leaves New York Saturday. The squad will be accompanied by the newspaper men who will report the games for the New York papers. They will pick up several of the other players while en route south. Bright and early Monday morning the squad will be at work at Ponce de Leon.

GRANTLAND RICE COMES TO ATLANTA

Grantland Rice, a Southern League newspaper writer, that Atlanta "sent out" to the big time some of the best 400 with the pencil and fielded 1,000 with the typewriter ever since, is in Atlanta.

Grantland is here in advance of the New York Americans who will be here Sunday, but owing to some personal business engagements in Philadelphia, he was unable to get away before. He left Philadelphia yesterday for this city with Mr. Mulcahy as a companion. sion of their value because they do not particularly appeal to our needs.

That is the trouble with us all in estimating the value of other things besides advertising. Very few of us can judge of the needs of people other than ourselves. We pass opinions upon this or that thing FROM OUR OWN VIEW-POINT ONLY, without taking into consideration the views of other people.

But it pays, in the advertising business especially, TO STUDY EVEN THE LITTLE THINGS VERY CAREFULLY.

CELEBRATING THE SUCCESS OF ATLANTA AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Flaunt by Francis E. Price, Staff Photographer

Members of the Automobile and Accessory Association gathered for banquet last night.

In honor of the executive committee of the Atlanta auto show, and also in celebration of the success of the Automobile and Accessory Association held a joint banquet last night in the Transportation Club.

An event long to be remembered ever served by the club, and the speeches were highly enjoyed. The banquet lasted until midnight and had it been left to the majority of those who enjoyed it, it would still be in full blast.

President G. W. Hanson, who acted as toastmaster, made a short speech when he introduced three members of the association, prominent in the local automobile world, who spoke for things pertaining to them.

A feature address of the occasion was delivered by Homer C. George, manager of the show, who spoke of the receipts of the enterprise, and how the thousands of tickets were sold on new and original plans, suggested mostly by members of the association.

Instead of Mayor Winn, who was absent on account of a previous engagement, Councilman C. B. Knight was present, and explained by one who does not know.

Chief J. L. Beavers spoke of the merits of gasoline, when used in the patrol wagon, and offered assistance of the two machines used in his department upon any occasion, at a cost of only $5.75. The chief was greeted with round after round of applause.

The state will regret to learn of the death of B. F. Hawes, which occurred at his home in Lumpkin last night.

In certain ways are more liable to produce the disease. It is possible to produce a nerve disease resembling cholera in several respects. The same changes in diet which either prevent or cure cholera in man act in a similar manner in respect to the poly-animal manner of the fowl. Here, too, the value in discovering the cause and cure of disease.

Practical experiences with beriberi as reported by the director of public health, Professor Victor G. Heiser, leave little doubt, says The Journal of the American Medical Association, that medical science has placed a weapon in the hands of preventive medicine for the eradication of another of the world's serious and costly diseases.

Novelist Was the Family Dancer

Panny Burney, one of the world's first woman writers, was called the "little woman" because she seemed to know less than the other children in the family. She did not know much, but she was a writer. Her first novel, "Evelyn," was written surprisingly, and won her much fame.

lution of Dr. Vaughan was laid on the table. This may mean that citizens who wanted to complain may resort to the courts.

A contract was awarded to the Otis Elevator Company for a new city hall elevator at a cost of $1,200. Councilman Haverly introduced an ordinance, which was referred to the ordinance committee, requiring all sorts of vehicles to carry "tail lights" at night.

Councilmen Knight, Mason and Chambers were appointed a special committee to negotiate with John W. Alexander for the purchase of sufficient property to extend Bass street from Cooper to Windsor.

Want City Limits Extended. A petition of citizens for the extension of the city limits in the Battle Hill district was referred to the special committee on the redistricting of wards.

Councilmen Guess, Hall and Hatcher and Alderman Warren were appointed a special committee to confer with the president of the Georgia Railway and Electric Company about rechartering Kelly and Grant streets and Glenwood avenue, where the street paving was badly damaged when the double track was laid.

man, and State Senator William Flynn, of Pittsburgh.

Headquarters in Washington. Senator Dixon will have headquarters at Washington, Mr. Knox will be in charge in Chicago, and Mr. Ward in New York, while Mr. Lyon will look after the campaign in the south.

Mr. Newberry's administrative committee of the campaign. It will open and maintain headquarters and oversee the collection of funds.

Senator Dixon's statement follows:

"For more than fifty years the republican party, responding to the demands of a majority of the voters of this country, has controlled the policies of the nation. This extraordinary lease of delegated power from the people has only followed the response of its leaders to the insistent demands of political growth and progress. A political party can only retain power when it has the confidence of the people."

"Four years ago, by more than a million majority, the republican party was again given a new lease of power. Next November we must submit our claim for stewardship to the people."

"The lack of positive leadership during the past three years has turned a republican majority of sixty in the house of representatives into an adverse democratic majority of seventy."

"The lack of leadership of the republican party, and the loss of control of that body and temporarily has lost control of a dozen republican states of the north and west. The lack of leadership of statesmanship, has produced a condition of business bewilderment which has halted the prosperity of the whole country. There can be no cure for this industrial stagnation unless we substitute a policy of progressive and constructive legislation which shall meet modern conditions with modern laws. These alarming conditions challenge the sober attention of every republican who hopes for success in the coming presidential election."

Predicts Nomination.

"These are the things that have caused a nation-wide movement for the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt as the republican candidate for president. The overwhelming demand of the masses of the republican voters for him can only result in his nomination by the national convention. The republican party has followed him to victory and are now convinced that his leadership is absolutely necessary to success in November."

"No man in direct touch with political conditions in the whole country can doubt the existence of the overwhelming sentiment of the people for Roosevelt. During the past thirty days it has begun to dawn on the leaders of the republican party that while public sentiment is in favor of Roosevelt, the same sentiment is in favor of Roosevelt as a presidential nominee. These same interests are endeavoring to control the action of the people themselves at the ballot box."

Test Made.

"Literally hundreds of test votes of political sentiment in both the great parties have recently been made by republican newspapers and other agencies, and in every section of the country, with the single exception of the republican district of Columbia and the Hawaiian Islands, they have all told one unanimous story. In more than half a million votes so tested, Colonel Roosevelt has led in the balloting by an average ratio of more than five to one over all other candidates combined, both republican and democratic. While these unofficial tests of presidential sentiment cannot be mathematically accurate, no sane man can longer doubt the overwhelming sentiment among the voters of the country who by their ballots in November will determine the political character of the next administration. In political circles it is no longer a question of doubt that in every state where the voters under the republican preference election laws, can express their real choice of a presidential candidate, the republican will have every single delegate from those states to the republican national convention in South."

"The only hope left to those republicans who are opposed to the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt is to control, through the provision of federal patronage, in the democratic states of the south, where no republican electoral vote is possible, the delegates from those states, together with delegates from some states east of the Allegheny mountains, to the national convention largely controlled by political bosses. The republican voters under the republican states of the north and west do not propose that their candidate for president should be named by such means."

"Never in the history of American politics has a more complete destruction of the power of federal patronage been witnessed than when recently in certain republican states a batch of ten federal offices were put up at auction for future delivery to the high bidder in violation of the national republican convention. The open acknowledgment that political patronage has been and is being sold from day to day, has created a feeling of indignation among republican senators and representatives in congress who would not recognize a person named by the nomination of a presidential candidate who has caused thoughtful men to inquire whether the use of money is any less reprehensible than bribery by appointment to office."

"Elected in November." "Responding to the overwhelming sentiment of the republican voters, the national organization that has been created for the purpose of nominating Colonel Roosevelt's candidacy confidently believes that he will be nominated by the republican party and overwhelmingly elected in November."

In announcing his appointment of the executive committee, Mr. Revel issued a statement in which he said that during the last two months it has been abundantly proved that the overwhelming majority of the American people desire that Theodore Roosevelt again shall serve them as president, and that in spite of the opposition of the selfish special interests of the officeholding machine, he can be renominated."

Roosevelt Back. New York, February 29.—Back from his trip to Boston, Colonel Roosevelt resumed his work at his editorial office today. It was his first day in New York since his announcement that he was willing to accept the presidential nomination, and a large number of politicians went to see him.

Colonel Roosevelt said he expected to remain in New York until tomorrow afternoon, when he will go to Oyster Bay. He said he had made no definite plans for the coming republican national convention in June. He has received a large number of invitations to speak, but said that he did not wish to make extended trips if he could avoid it. However, he has accepted it. It is to speak before the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers on the battlefield of Gettysburg, Pa., on Memorial day.

McCormick Sees Roosevelt. Medill McCormick, of Chicago, who has been managing the Roosevelt headquarters in Washington, was on hand when Colonel Roosevelt reached his office, prepared for an all-day discussion of the situation. Mr. McCormick denied the statement that he had come over from Washington because of a misunderstanding with the colonel. It had been said that he was disappointed when Colonel Roosevelt stated that he favored the nomination of Senator Dixon, of Montana, as the national manager. Mr. McCormick said that he was a good soldier in the Roosevelt fight and had done everything possible to induce Senator Dixon to undertake direction of the campaign for Colonel Roosevelt's nomination.

A general Roosevelt committee, including in its membership Medill McCormick, Gifford Pinchot, Amos Pinchot, Senator Dixon, of Montana, and probably James R. Garfield and other close friends of Colonel Roosevelt, will be organized in Washington early next week, to take charge of the Roosevelt campaign here.

ROOSEVELT CLUB ORGANIZED BY HIS NEW ORLEANS FRIENDS. New Orleans, February 29.—It was announced last night that a Roosevelt club was in process of organization in this city and that headquarters were to be opened on Canal street within a few days. This is the first development following the announcement of several prominent Louisiana republicans that they would work in the interest of Colonel Roosevelt and nominating primary next month. General W. J. Rehan, former postmaster of this city, last night announced that he would support Roosevelt.

"Sunny Jim" and Taft. Washington, February 29.—Reports widely circulated last night that Vice President Sherman had practically been decided upon as a running mate for President Taft before the republican national convention were denied today by party leaders.

The day after tomorrow, when President Taft's cabinet had come out in support of the vice president for re-nomination.

"HANDS OFF" WILL BE POLICY OF GOVERNOR OF TENNESSEE. Nashville, Tenn., February 29.—Governor H. W. Hooper, of Tennessee, will be hands off in the contests in the state for the selection of delegates to the national republican convention.

In reply to a telegram from William J. Oliver, of Knoxville, the contractor, who is a Roosevelt leader in his section, Governor Hooper said today: "You are correct in assuming that my policy is hands off in the contest for delegates from Tennessee to the republican national convention. This has been my position from the outset and will be adhered to. If I am to head the state ticket, as now seems probable, I shall not seek to pursue a course that will not weaken the ticket. Whatever my personal preference may be, as for the presidential nominee, it would not conduce to strengthen the state ticket for me to inject into this contest that for delegate to the national convention."

OVER TAFT AND ROOSEVELT. MISSOURI REPUBLICANS SPLIT. Excelsior Springs, Mo., February 29.—President Taft and Theodore Roosevelt were in a convention marked by disorderly scenes, divided honors in a contest today for delegates from the third congressional district of Missouri to the national convention at Chicago. Two Taft delegates and two Roosevelt delegates were chosen.

The Roosevelt delegates are the first from any part of the country to be instructed for him.
